Sec. Finch Now Against 'Freedom Of Choice' Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, under attack both in and out of the government for his civil rights stand, has put the Nixon administration on record against a controversial House-passed "freedom of choice" school desegregation measure.

In announcing opposition to the amendment proposed by Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., Finch also said Thursday his Health, Education and Welfare Department was preparing a report that would vindicate its civil rights efforts over the past eight months.

House-Passed Bill

Whitten's proposal, an amendment to the HEW appropriations bill, passed the House two months ago and is now before the Senate. It would prohibit the government from using the leverage of federal aid to require a student to attend a school against his wishes.

This would restore the free-choice school attendance plans proposed in many southern states but ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court except where the result is speedy desegregation.

Fight Underway

By putting the administration flatly against the Whitten amendment, Finch climaxed a fight sources indicate was underway on the eve of the House vote on the measure.

At that time, sources said, the welfare secretary was prepared to issue a strong public condemnation of the amendment. But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell reportedly quashed the statement and urged House Republican leaders in a private meeting to assume a hands-off stance.

Concerning the civil rights report he said his department will issue shortly, Finch said he is confident it "will show that remarkable progress has been made.

Counter Proposal

His statement apparently was aimed at countering recent public criticism of administration policy and a near-revolt by Justice Department civil rights lawyers. The Justice lawyers objected to Finch's move to give 30 Mississippi school districts additional time to implement court-ordered desegregation plans.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund Tuesday called the administration's civil rights stance a "policy of deliberate confusion."

Administration KO's Auto Antitrust Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Justice Department has agreed to settle out of court its antitrust suit charging the nation's automakers with conspiring to delay installation of antismog devices on new model cars.

The accord—announced Thursday—would require automobile manufacturers to develop antismog devices independently and in competition with each other. With court approval, the agreement would become binding in 30 days.

Firms Sign Decree

The decree was signed by General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. American Motors Corp. and the Automobile Manufacturers Association, a trade group.

In Detroit, Chrysler and General Motors denied they had taken part in any agreement to restrain development of antismog devices. They said they were entering into the settlement to avoid long and costly litigation that would delay development of emission control systems.

Los Angeles County supervisors said they would try to intervene in the case before the 30-day deadline, thereby keeping the suit alive and nullifying the accord.

Joint Announcement

The pact was announced simultaneously by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in Washington and Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard McLaren in Los Angeles. The agreement, a proposed consent decree, was filed in U.S. District Court here.

However, county supervisors and Rep. George E. Brown, D-Calif., said the pact permits automakers to evade a court suit without laying down a specific timetable for the development of auto exhaust control systems. Seventeen other congressmen opposed the pact as word of its existence spread through Washington.

As detailed in a news conference by Mitchell, the agreement prohibits automakers from developing smog control devices in concert and bans them from agreeing among themselves when to equip the cars with the antipollution devices.

McLaren said the pact forces the nation's automakers to rescind a 1955 agreement providing for crosslicensing of antismog devices patents.

Bear Hunter Shot Near Champion

A bear hunter from Clawson, Michigan, become the Upper Peninsula's first hunting fatality today when he was shot by another member of his party while hunting near Champion.

James A. Nelson, 22, was shot by Charles Zimmerman, 29, Big Rapids, after he saw Nelson moving in the brush and thought he was a bear, police said.

The shooting occurred at 6:45 this morning in dense woods near the Soo Line right of way just east of Champion.

According to State Police, Nelson was killed instantly by a single shot.

Walkout Ends

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Workers returned to their jobs Thursday after a four-hour wildcat walkout by members of the United Auto Workers halted most production Wednesday at Tassell Industries, a subsidiary of Gulf & Western.

The walkout reportedly stemmed from a dispute over incentive pay. About 240 of the 250 production employes joined the walkout. Further discussions about the grievance are scheduled.

Service Clubs Probe Turning Up New Leads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources indicate an investigation of financial irregularities in military service clubs is widening. "The investigators keep turning up new leads," said one source.

He described the problem as appearing most acute in Vietnam, but said mishandling of funds, goods and services also is suspected in clubs in West Germany and the United States as well.

Although the probe has centered on noncommissioned officers' clubs, investigators are looking into officers clubs as well.

The inquiry centers on the way club managers used funds available to operate the facilities.

Although money to operate the clubs does not come out of the federal treasury, the Pentagon has the responsibility for assuring that there are no irregularities.

The armed services are due to report to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird by Sept. 19 on what their probers have discovered and what corrective action has been taken.

However, the widening scope of the investigation suggests the Sept. 19 report can only be an interim accounting.

And the Pentagon has decided to bring no charges against anybody until a Senate investigation into the situation is opened later this month.

This, it was explained, will permit the senators to question anybody they wish without being inhibited by the possibility that such inquiries could affect the course of any criminal cases.

Also, if a person is formally charged, he might not be available for Senate questioning.

Nixon Orders Bomb Raids Be Resumed

Communist Intent Was Tested By Earlier Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon personally ordered a 36-hour halt in B52 bombing missions over South Vietnam but has now directed that the bombings be resumed, the White House announced today.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the temporary cessation in sorties was ordered to give policymakers time to determine what the Communists intended to do about the level of fight following the 72-hour cease-fire they had announced to mark the death of Ho Chi Minh.

SAIGON (AP) — Acting on orders from Washington, the U.S. Command canceled B52 bombing raids scheduled for South Vietnam Thursday night and today in a peace overture to Ho Chi Minh's successors, military sources said.

36-Hour Suspension?

There was no immediate indication when the big bombers would go into action again over South Vietnam. Some sources speculated the suspension might last as long as 36 hours, which would carry it past President Nixon's conference in Washington today with his top diplomatic and military advisers on Vietnam.

Meanwhile B52 attacks continued on the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos, the main North Vietnamese infiltration and supply corridor to South Vietnam. B52 raids also continued there during the three-day cease-fire this week for Ho's funeral although they were suspended over South Vietnam.

There was speculation that the new suspension was accompanied by diplomatic peace moves elsewhere. A South Vietnamese source said there "will be some peace moves soon."

All Flights Canceled

Military sources said B52 missions scheduled for Thursday night were suddenly canceled without explanation.

"Part of the schedule was canceled on orders from Washington," said one source. "We had missions scheduled for the 1st and 3rd Corps, but they were canceled. I don't know why. I don't know the interplay in Washington."

The South Vietnamese government had no immediate comment.

Sources also reported that the weekly average of sorties the U.S. Air Force's fighter-bombers had dropped 38 per cent since the beginning of the year because there is "less ground action and less call for support."

On-And-Off Basis

There was no indication how long the B52 suspension would remain in effect. There was speculation that the raids would be put on an on-and-off basis geared to the intensity of the enemy's activity.

"It is a gesture of de-escalation, a political move," one source said. "There is a new leadership in Hanoi."

Another military source compared the suspension to the halt in the bombing of North Vietnam on Dec. 24, 1965, which President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered as part of a "peace offensive." Johnson sent the bombers back into action on Jan. 31, 1966, after 37 days, because he didn't get the response he wanted from Hanoi.

Ford Names 3 Men To Replace Knudsen

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II has named a three-man team to oversee the operations of the Ford Motor Co. after firing Semon E. Knudsen, who has been president of the big auto firm since February 1968.

Ford also indicated he would maintain a closer watch on the company's operations. He is chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

With the firing of Knudsen, announced Thursday, Ford also eliminated the post of Ford president.

Semon E. Knudsen

Ford would not amplify on his statement that Knudsen, advised of the decision Sept. 2, was leaving because "things did not work out as I had hoped they might."

Knudsen, 56, said his dismissal came as a complete surprise. He said the company had prospered under his direction and Ford agreed with that evaluation.

"During the time that I was at the Ford Motor Co., Mr. Ford concurred with every important decision I made," Knudsen said. "Working as an executive team, we materially improved the condition of the company.

"He never indicated to me any dissatisfaction with my services or the direction the company was taking," he said.

Knudsen joined Ford in February 1968 after resigning as fourth-ranking executive at General Motors Corp. He quit GM after being passed over for president in favor of Edward N. Cole, who holds that post today.

Knudsen signed a five-year contract which would pay him $200,000 a year. He will receive $16,666 a month for the remaining 41 months of the contract unless he takes another job in the industry or otherwise breaks provisions of the contract.

Knudsen stated Thursday that he would not rejoin GM.

The three Ford executives named to replace Knudsen as heads of operational divisions were: Robert J. Hampson, 52, president of Philco-Ford and Tractor Operations; Robert Stevenson, 55, president of Ford International Automotive Operations; and Lee Iacocca, 45, president of Ford North American Automotive Operations.

Israeli Planes Renew Attacks

By The Associated Press

Israeli warplanes swept across the Gulf of Suez today in an attack on Egyptian military objectives on Egypt's eastern coast, the Israeli military announced in Tel Aviv.

It was the fourth straight day of aerial activity on the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire line. It came 24 hours after fierce air battles with Egyptian aircraft in which Israel claimed shooting down 11 Soviet-made planes and Cairo claimed the downing of six Israeli aircraft.

A brief announcement said the planes today went in at 10:30 a.m. and returned to Israel unharmed.

Singled out for attack, a Tel Aviv spokesman said, were Ras Za'farana, 55 miles south of Port Suez, and Ras Gharib, about 120 miles south of Port Suez, which is on the southern end of the Suez Canal.

Earlier the Israelis reported one of their patrols killed eight Arab guerrillas in a clash 25 miles north of the Dead Sea Thursday night.

GOP Favoring Auto Firms?

WASHINGTON (AP)— Four congressmen have charged the Nixon administration with showing favors to the auto industry and cheating the public of facts on how automakers allegedly retarded development of pollution devices.

Industry spokesmen have denied they conspired to retard development of pollution control devices.

At least one said he was considering asking for a congressional investigation—both into the Justice Department's disposal of an antitrust suit against the automakers and into the facts accumulated through the years against the manufacturers.

The Justice Department Thursday filed a proposed consent decree in Los Angeles federal court to settle the antitrust suit out of court.

The car manufacturers and their trade group, the Automobile Manufacturers Association, would be prohibited from conspiring to delay or obstruct developing and installation of pollution control devices for motor vehicles.

Kosyigin, Chinese Talks Shrouded With Mystery

MOSCOW (AP) — Some Western diplomats in Moscow said today that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin may have gone to Peking to warn Communist China against more attacks across the Soviet-Chinese border.

The diplomats speculated that

Meeting Called "Useful"

Kosygin would not have flown so far out of his way unless he had something more to say to Premier Chou En-lai than to suggest resumption of talks on border questions. These observers speculated that the Soviet premier told the Chinese premier the Kremlin's patience is not unlimited.

The Russians said the surprise meeting, Thursday was "useful," but they gave no indication if anything was achieved.

After the first top-level conference between the two Communist giants in 4½ years, the Soviet news agency Tass said in a 150-word announcement: "The two sides openly explained their positions and held a conversation useful for both sides."

Peking's New China News Agency issued a 62-word statement in Tokyo saying the two premiers had "a frank conversation," but it also gave no further details.

It was assumed that Kosygin and Chou discussed the battles along their long Asian border, but the words "frank" and "useful" in Communist communiques usually indicate disagreement. It was thought the two leaders also discussed aid to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

Battle Lines Discussed

But the deep-seated differences between the Kremlin and the Chinese appear too great to be talked away. Their struggle for leadership of the world Communist movement has provoked a split that seems destined to remain. It has been accompanied by exchanges of abuse and condemnation that made even meeting at the same table difficult.

Japanese Wooed

Shortly after the New China News Agency announced the meeting, it issued a report in Tokyo in which it said the Soviet Union's wooing of Japan was an indication that the Moscow leadership is "ridden with innumerable crises and is at the end of its rope."

Kosygin called in at Peking on his way back to Moscow from the funeral of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh in Hanoi.

Irish Protestants Repent Over Rift

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark admitted today that his Protestant party has treated the Roman Catholics badly and reaffirmed its determination on reform.

Commenting on a judicial inquiry's report on Northern Ireland's year of violence, Chichester-Clark said: "'It is self-evident that in the past all of us have made mistakes. The question is what do we do now—profit from these mistakes, or sink into a welter of recriminations which would insure that those mistakes will be repeated . . .

"We are quite prepared to accept the facts the report contains. What we have to do now is get on with the reforms we have promised."

Militant Protestant and Catholic leaders denounced the report, which accused them of fomenting the religious strife.

The 10,000-word report, released today, was the result of a judicial inquiry by a three-man commission into the nature and causes of the troubles between Ulster's Protestant majority and Catholic minority.

The inquiry began March 3. Last month's riots, in which eight persons were killed, occurred while the report was being prepared.

The commission listed inferior housing, anti-Catholic discrimination in making government appointments, and gerrymandering of political boundaries to favor the Protestants as three basic causes of discontent among the Catholics.

The report warned of "a rising sense of continuing injustices and grief among large sections of the Catholic population . . . in respect to inadequacy of housing conditions, unfair methods of allocation of houses, and misuse in certain cases of house allocations to perpetuate Unionist control of the local authority."

Urban Renewal Fund Freeze Is Causing Stir

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 300 mayors and their allies in Congress are growing angry with the Nixon administration's four-month freeze on all applications for stepped-up urban renewal assistance.

Officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development maintain they are working feverishly to lift the freeze and save the Neighborhood Development Program —NDP. But they have yet to develop a spending formula that satisfies the President's inflation-conscious Budget Bureau, which imposed the freeze April 30.

As a result, by one congressional count, some 47 applicant cities and counties stand to lose renewal credit this month for $24 million in improvements already made. Hundreds of others are losing construction time awaiting a decision from the administration.

Lawrence M. Cox, assistant HUD secretary for renewal and housing assistance, said in an interview "it is most likely" that less than $300 million will be available for NDP.

This average is less than $1 million for each of the applicants or accepted communities and would be meaningless, congressional critics complain.

The House Housing Committee has voted to require the administration to spend at least $400 million for neighborhood development.

However, even if the Congress approves this measure, the administration can't be forced to spend the money.

The committee also has approved an amendment offered by Rep. Daniel E. Button, D-N.Y., that would preserve for an additional year the noncash renewal credits of the 47 threatened communities.

Rail Car Blast Endangers Area

GLENDORA, Miss. (AP) — Clouds of lethal phosgene gas, spewed from four railroad tank cars that exploded near here Thursday night, endangering areas as far away as 30 miles today after forcing the evacuation of thousands of persons.

No fatalities and one injury were reported, although some livestock was killed, authorities said.

Glendora is about 30 miles north of Greenwood.

The tank cars were carrying highly flammable vinyl chloride which was transformed into phosgene gas by the fire which followed the explosion. Officials said the blaze would have to burn itself out and refused to speculate how long the gas would be a threat.

A shifting southerly breeze forced numerous changes in the evacuation area and estimates of the number of persons evacuated ranged as high as 25,000.

The Pentagon, already smarting from the controversy surrounding shipments of poison gas from its Rocky Mountain Arsenal, issued a statement early today denying any connection with today's shipment.

"I would like to make it very clear that there is no Department of Defense involvement in today's derailment of chemical tank cars in Mississippi," said Deputy Asst. Secretary of Defense Jerry Friedheim.

Friedheim said some military technicians were sent to the scene at the request of civilian authorities.

Fact-Finding Tour:

Commerce Director Coming To Peninsula

The itinerary of an industry and tourism fact finding tour of the Upper Peninsula next week by Richard E. Whitmer, director of the Michigan Dept. of Commerce, was announced Thursday by Gov. William Milliken.

The tour, which begins Monday in Sault Ste. Marie, will visit Manistique and Escanaba Wednesday.

Whitmer is scheduled to arrive in Manistique at 10 a. m., lunch at the Fireside and leave for Escanaba by car about 2 p. m. Upon arrival in Escanaba, he will make a brief automobile tour in industry and tourism facilities in the area before meeting with community leaders about 4:30 p. m., according to Walter Lewke, manager of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce who is coordinating plans for the visit here.

A dinner program is planned for the Terrace at 6:30 p. m.

Whitmer will remain in Escanaba Wednesday night, meeting with the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission for breakfast Thursday before moving to Iron Mountain.

Ends At Menominee

The tour will continue through Saturday, ending at Menominee. Visits also are scheduled at Marquette, Munising, Iron River, Ironwood, Ontonagon, and Houghton-Hancock.

"Whitmer is making this extensive tour to examine the current situation and evaluate the potential for expanding tourism and developing industry," the Governor said. "Concentrated efforts must be made to preserve the region's natural abundance while attracting more industry and encouraging expansion."

Interested individuals in each area have accepted the assignment of host coordinators in setting up programs on local potentials, problems and possible solutions as well as on-the-spot visits to key problem and potential development areas.

Conboy Along

Accompanying Whitmer will be B. M. Conboy, director of the Office of Economic Expansion; Ward J. Mayrand, executive assistant, Department of Commerce; and Aarne Ervast, who has had the responsibility of working with the host coordinators.

Whitmer and his group will begin their tour about the same time that Gov. Milliken is meeting at Mackinac Island Sunday night and Monday with Minnesota Gov. Harold LeVander and Wisconsin Gov. Warren Knowles.

The three governors, members of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, will discuss economic development in the region which includes the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula.

Plan For Action

"As I said when I first announced the tour last month at the Upper Peninsula State Fair, this is not just another survey, economic study or task force," the Governor said of the Commerce director's tour. "This is a step in developing a plan for action and it is vital that the new Commerce Department director focus now on the problems and potentials concerning the Upper Peninsula's economic climate.

"On completion of the mission, Whitmer will report to me on the situation as he has assessed it in contacts with individuals and groups throughout the peninsula. I further expect suggestions in what we can do for the Upper Peninsula, suggestions that may have originated from the citizens or from the knowledge and experience Whitmer will gain on this mission," Milliken added.

GOV. WILLIAM G. MILLIKEN, left, and Richard E. Whitmer, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, review plans for the Upper Peninsula Fact Finding Mission. Eleven areas will be visited by Whitmer, starting Monday in Sault Ste. Marie.

More than 70 persons attended the session that included discussions, panel presentation, and a dinner. The local arrangements committee was composed of William DeHaan, Mrs. Lou Berglund and Don Pearce.

Types Of Forest Cover On Maps

New township-sized maps showing state forest cover types in the Upper Peninsula are now on sale through a commercial printing firm in Lansing, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

The maps, prepared from a four-year field study recently completed by the DNR, may be obtained by writing to: Commercial Blueprint, Inc., 523 East Shiawassee St., Lansing, Mich. 49812.

Each copy, when folded and mailed in an envelope, is priced at $1.30, including state sales tax. A rolled map sent in a mailing tube costs $1.82, which also covers the tax charge. Persons may inspect maps covering state forests in their locales at offices of DNR area and district foresters.

Recreation Bond Requests Already Over Local Quota

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has already received requests collectively exceeding the $30 million in recreation bond money earmarked for local units of government, but its officials assure that communities yet to apply still are in the running for a share of these funds.

Of 146 applications submitted by the first filing deadline of Sept. 2, the DNR has deferred 31 in preliminary screening because they failed to follow basic form-filling procedures or did not include recreation plans.

Those clearing that first fundamental check are now having their actual recreation plans closely reviewed by the DNR, and many of them are expected to be at least temporarily held back from further processing for lack of supporting information.

Thus, only a very small number of local requests probably will meet the DNR's criteria and high planning standards and qualify for the first list of projects to be submitted in October for review by the State Legislature.

Glenn C. Gregg, the DNR's deputy director of recreation, urges communities seeking information concerning application procedures to contact the DNR's Grants-in-Aid Section in Lansing.

Public Invited To Save Our Air Discussion Meet

The effort to control air pollution in Delta County, a campaign that has received national attention, will be opened to public discussion Monday night in Escanaba by the Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air.

The Save Our Air committee is inviting the public to attend the meeting to be held at Marco's Starlite Room at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

A brief film on air pollution will be screened, the proposed Delta County clean air ordinance will be presented and discussed, and the meeting will be opened to questions and answers.

Ask Public Hearing

At the heart of the problem in the Escanaba area is the proposed construction by the Escanaba Paper Co., a subsidiary of the Mead Corp., of a sulfate pulpmill. The Save Our Air committee is fearful that the industrial operation will blanket the area with a disagreeable odor, similar to that in other sulfate pulpmill communities.

The Save Our Air committee has drafted and submitted to the Delta County Board of Supervisors a proposed ordinance for the control and regulation of air pollution in the county.

The Board of Supervisors has five members: Frank Stupak of Gladstone, Harold Vanlerberghe and H. George Nelson of Escanaba, Phil Miron of Ford River, and Stanley Dominic of Ensign.

The Board is being asked by the Save Our Air committee to hold a public hearing on the proposed ordinance at one of its regular meetings in October.

Control Board

If adopted, the ordinance would provide for the appointment by the Board of Supervisors of an air pollution control board. The control board would be composed of citizens of Delta County and would have the power to enforce federal and state clean air standards. Representatives of industry, labor, medicine, and the public at large would be on the control board. Members would serve without compensation.

The proposed ordinance would establish local procedures for obtaining reasonable and binding commitments for the abatement of air pollution problems; and should such commitments or abatement be refused or violated, abatement could be sought by court order.

The initiation of complaints to appropriate federal and state agencies would also be within authority of the proposed control board.

The provisions of the proposed ordinance will be fully discussed and questions will be invited at the Save Our Air session Monday night.

Play, Politics On Agenda:

Michigan Republicans Jam Mackinac Island

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—Nearly 1,000 Michigan Republicans headed for this picturesque resort island today for a weekend of play and politicking that was to include a push for support of Gov. William Milliken's education reform proposals.

The formal agenda for the three-day Republican leadership conference included GOP State Central Committee meetings, speeches by Maryland Congressman Robert C. B. Morton, the Republican national committeeman, and U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin as well as a tennis tournament and golf match.

Wheeling And eDaling

But behind-the-scenes wheeling and dealing for backing for political offices and programs was expected to dominate the session.

Announcement Thursday that Secretary of State James M. Hare would soon reveal his future political plans could stir much comment at Mackinac. There has been wide speculation that the seven-term top Democratic vote-getter would not seek re-election.

Senate majority leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, and Rep. Weldon O. Yeager, R-Detroit, both have expressed interest in the post.

Sen. Hart Issue

Republicans also must deal with the question of who to run against in a moment of what Milliken termed "frustration," said recently that "Phil Hart can't be beat."

Milliken took issue with that comment, saying there was no one in politics, including himself, who was unbeatable.

Three men have been mentioned as possible GOP contenders for Hart's job. They include Congressman Don Riegle of Flint, Chief Justice Thomas Brennan of the Michigan Supreme Court and Dr. Leroy Augenstein, a member of the State Board of Education.

Brennan, however, has said he is not now considering running for the U.S. Senate.

Area Teacher On Task Force

Robert Ferguson, a teacher in the Escanaba Area public schools, has been appointed to a seven-man "State Task Force Committee for Inservice Training" by the Michigan Department of Education.

The committee's job involves the communication of new trends in science education and the development and planning of inservice education for science teachers in the state.

The task force has planned several workshop sections at the Region 17-18 M. E. A. Convention in Escanaba on October 3: New trends in Teaching Physical Science (PSSC Physics, Chem Study, etc.), several working sections for elementary teachers (SCIS, AAAS Science as a Process), and a special seminar in which leading Upper Peninsula science teachers are invited to discuss the "Present Status of Science Education in the Upper Peninsula."

The committee is especially interested in working with the administrators and science teachers of individual school districts in setting up programs to meet their needs, Ferguson said.

Ferguson, a resident of Ford River, is the Upper Peninsula director of the Michigan Science Teachers Association, and a director of the Delta County "Save Our Air" Committee, a citizens group which is concerned about problems of environmental pollution.

Other members of the Task Force Committee include Paul Chamberlain, Petoskey; Charles Crosser, Charlevoix, Emmet Intermediate School District; Paul DuHammel, Oscoda; Dr. Jack Kammeraad, science consultant, State Department of Education, Lansing; William Schuler, Alpena; and Norm Wixson, Eastern Upper Peninsula Intermediate School District, Rudyard.

Pollution Talks

LANSING (AP) — Industries from five cities will be called in to report on their air pollution abatement efforts before a meeting of the Air Pollution Control Commission in Lansing Tuesday.

The Grand Rapids Gypsum Co. will submit a progress report. The firm has been ordered to establish full control of present pollution by next July.

Making their first appearances and reports to the commission will be the Northern Reduction Co. of Traverse City, the Benton Harbor Malleable Co., Springfield Foundry of Battle Creek and Brown Paper Co. of Kalamazoo.

THE REAL COST OF PAROCHIAID

It is obvious that

Parochial schools exist for the specific purpose of teaching sectarian religious doctrines

Parochiaid means that you will be taxed to support religions not of your choice

Parochiaid is just the beginning. Parochiaid advocates will ask for more and more until parochial schools are totally subsidized by taxes

Parochiaid will cost more — much more. In many parts of Michigan this will mean tax support of 4 separate, overlapping school systems — the public schools and the Christian Reformed, Missouri Synod Lutheran, and Roman Catholic parochial school systems. Duplication is wasteful. Taxes will go sky high.

Parochial schools discriminate by religion both in the hiring of teachers and in admissions policies. Why should the government prohibit de facto racial segregation but encourage de facto religious segregation?

Private schools (an expensive luxury) have a legal right to exist. However, they have absolutely no claim on the public treasury.

If you are concerned about the harmful effects of parochiaid write to the following at the Capitol Building, Lansing, Michigan 48902:

Hon. Thomas Schweigert, Hon. Charles Zollar, Hon. William Copeland, Hon Charles Varnum, Hon. Anthony Stamm, Hon. Lucille McCollough
Hon. William Milliken, Governor

DEDICATED TO SERVICE and confident of the future of the Escanaba area and the Upper Peninsula is Sam Cohodas and the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Escanaba. Cohodas, director and chairman of the board, was greeted at a luncheon program Thursday. Pictured (from left) are John Greene, president of the First National Bank & Trust Co.; Harold Gessner, representing the Gessner family; John P. McGoff, East Lansing, Panax Corp., president; and Cohodas. (Daily Press Photo)

Cohodas Confident Of Area's Progress

More than 300 of Escanaba's community leaders and a few from outside of the area turned out to "get acquainted" with Sam Cohodas at a noon luncheon at the Terrace Thursday and heard the well-known Upper Peninsula banker promise to continue to invest in the future of the Upper Peninsula.

The luncheon was hosted by the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Escanaba. Cohodas is a director and chairman of the board.

The Cohodas family, of which Sam is the spokesman, obtained the controlling stock interest in the bank from the Gessner family two months ago.

"The First National of Escanaba is a bank dedicated to serve the needs of the Escanaba area," Cohodas said. "To best serve the Escanaba area, the bank has to reinvest its deposits in that area. This has been the tradition of the bank and this will continue to be the program of the bank.

U.P. Need Cited

"I stand before you to assure you that the deposits coming into the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Escanaba from the Escanaba area will be reinvested in the Escanaba area," he emphasized. "The First National is an Escanaba bank and we intend to have it remain that way."

Cohodas said the Upper Peninsula as a whole lacks "venture capital" as large mortgage houses, insurance companies and other large investors are not too interested in investing money in the U.P. as they feel the pastures are greener elsewhere.

"We do not feel this way," he said. "The Cohodas family has for years maintained its interest in the entire Upper Peninsula. There is perhaps no other Upper Peninsula family that is as knowledgeable as our family as to the future potential of the Upper Peninsula.

Happy To Be Here

"The future of the whole Upper Peninsula depends largely on the investment capital and on the willingness of Upper Peninsula people to see that this capital is put to good economic use," he emphasized. "The capital will have to come largely from banks and banks will also have to encourage people to put it to good economic use."

Cohodas said the family is happy to be a part of the Escanaba community and assured local leaders that the First National Bank will provide "good banking" to the community.

"We think Escanaba is on the move and we want to be a part of it," he added.

"The success of a community is closely tied in with the loan policies of the local banks," he said. "A community that is slowly turning into a 'dried up prune" can lay many of its problems to the lack of an agressive loan policy by the local banks, whereas as a community that is busting out at the seams is most likely the recipient of an aggressive loan program by its banks.

"Just Sam"

"What is needed is a policy that is flexible enough to take care of the established borrower as well as the young people in the community."

Cohodas, who asked the group that he be known as "just Sam" around the community, was introduced by Harold Gessner, president of the Footware Division of United States Industries, Inc., and a member of the family from which Cohodas obtained the First National stock.

He said Sam Cohodas brings to Escanaba a "wonderful reputation" as a gentleman, banker and businessman.

Not Strangers Here

Although the luncheon was billed as a "Get Acquainted With Sam Cohodas" affair, Cohodas and his brothers — Max of Appleton, Wis., Harry of Houghton, Arnold of Appleton and Willard of Ishpeming—are no strangers to the area.

They have been in business as Northwest Fruit Co. in Escanaba since 1933 and Sam Cohodas has been a First National stockholder since 1944.

"Our family name has been associated for over 50 years in the food business in the Upper Peninsula and Upper Midwest area," he said.

Voice Welcome

Joining in the welcome to Escanaba to the Cohodas family were John Greene, president of the First National Bank & Trust Co.; Donald Brandt, president of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce; Rep. Charles Varnum of Manistique; Dr. Richard Rinehart, president of Bay de Noc Community College; John P. McGoff of East Lansing, president of Panax Corp., and Gessner.

Varnum said he is pleased that a man with the stature and ability of Mr. Cohodas has the foresight to locate in this area. Rinehart and Peter Mitchell, college instructor, presented a Bay de Noc Community College blazer to Cohodas.

McGoff said Escanaba is a "progressive and aggressive" community and has a great deal of introspect and farsightedness. "Sam has those same attributes," he said.

Jean Worth, retired editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, served as master of ceremonies. Invocation was delivered by Rev. Charles Carmody. Rev. Ben Helmer gave the benediction.

Bathurst has been in Michigan the last four years, coming here from Maryland. He is enrolled at Harvard to do graduate work this fall.

Experts Warn Against Resurgence Of Polio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government health experts, warning against a resurgence of polio if the nation lets down in vaccination guard, say potential pockets of the dread disease already exist in every metropolitan area of the country.

Public Health Service doctors cautioned against any undue complacency from the fact that so far this year only 10 cases of paralytic polio—the lowest rate in history—have been reported. There were 48 such cases last year.

20,000 Yearly Cases

In the years before 1955 when vaccines first became available, there were up to 20,000 cases annually of deadly or crippling polio.

But the government doctors said that even now on a nationwide basis approximately 30 per cent of the children in the most highly susceptible 1 to 4 year age group remain without vaccine.

Most of these are in ghetto or other low socio-economic sectors.

Doctors Worried

The possibility of outbreaks in these communities worry doctors such as F. Robert Freckleton, chief of the immunization branch of the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center at Atlanta, Ga.

"If we lose any of our present momentum in the vaccination program—and we already have problems there—these pockets of unvaccinated or incompletely vaccinated children may increase in number and size," he said.

Freckleton and Dr. Michael B. Gregg, chief of CDC's virus disease epidemiology section, discussed the situation in separate telephone interviews.

Gregg forecasts that unless something is done to improve the present rate and extent of polio vaccinations,—and maintain it as new babies come along—"pockets of polio may be with us for many years—that is, for example, two or three cases in a neighborhood, four or five in a ghetto . . ."

He said epidemics such as occurred prior to 1955 currently aren't a threat because, even under the present incomplete vaccination coverage, between 75 and 80 pr cent of the population up to age 40 have been vaccinated.

No Mass Epidemics

And this, he said, amounts essentially to "herd immunity"—enough to prevent widespread transmission of virus, and therefore enough to prevent mass epidemics.

Under the new federal Vaccine Assistance Act the government since 1963 has provided $53.2 million to the states to help provide free vaccines and promote innoculation programs.

"One problem as regards ghetto and similar areas," Freckleton said, "is that even when vaccination is accessible and without charge, it's often underutilized.

"The trouble is, many of these families have multiple problems. And, if their kids are well, these people don't give priority to things like seeking vaccinations."

J. Rushford Taken By Death

Joseph Zeph Rushford, 89, of Rapid River died at 5 p. m. Thursday at his home.

He was born March 26, 1880 in Egg Harbor, Wis. and had spent most of his life in Rapid River. He had been employed by the Buckeye Co. and the Nahma Co. as a scaler and camp clerk. Mr. Rushford was a member of the Congregational Church of Rapid River.

He is survived by his widow, Charlotte, one son, Stanley of Rapid River; three daughters, Mrs. Reino (Lenora) Ojala and Mrs. Robert (Doris) Roberts of Rapid River and Mrs. Robert (Gail) Corbett of Hudson, Ohio, 12 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Friends may call after 4 p. m. Sunday at the Skradski Funeral Home and the body will be removed to the Rapid River Congregational Church at 1 p. m. Monday where services will be conducted at 2 p. m. The Rev. William Verhelst will officiate and burial will be in the Rapid River Cemetery.

Three Programs

Autumn in the Upper Peninsula is a season of tranquility and color, hunting and football. It is a season of preparations for the long winter which everyone living above the Straits of Mackinac knows is coming — sooner or later.

This year, however, the fall season may bring a greater bounty than usual to the U. P. because of three action-oriented efforts — a week-long tour of the U. P. next week by Richard E. Whitmer, director of the State Dept. of Commerce, at the order of Gov. William Milliken; a three-day "fly-in" program in October called "Invest-Tour" being coordinated by Operation Action U. P., the Upper Michigan Tourist Association, and the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress, and a "Town Meeting of the Air" approach to local problems being planned by the U. P. Council of College Field Services and WNMR-TV at Northern Michigan University.

All three activities are "firsts" for the Upper Peninsula and on the surface, at least, all appear to hold some promise of benefit to the northern 15 counties of the state.

* * *

Whitmer's tour is the first to come up, beginning Monday at Sault Ste. Marie. When Gov. Milliken spoke last month at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba, he said he planned to send Whitmer into the Peninsula at the earliest opportunity to get a first hand look at the area's industry and tourism in hopes of developing some sort of "action plan" to promote Upper Peninsula growth.

It's sometimes difficult to see how a few men can get a meaningful view of the Upper Peninsula on the type of "blitz" scheduled for Whitmer and company, but the visit must be regarded optimistically as it will bring the commerce department director into direct contact with Upper Peninsulans for the better part of a week.

And while a few hours in each of a half dozen communities in the Upper Peninsula does not appear to hold any great promise of in depth discussions, there is the possibility that if a single problem is mentioned often enough — like transportation and highways — a strong feeling could be gained which might eventually lead to some state assistance.

* * *

"Invest-Tour" is an effort to interest outside money in the future growth of the Upper Peninsula. Basically it will work like this. Operation Action and UPCAP are working through their contacts in metropolitan centers in the middle west to lure people with money into the Upper Peninsula for a look at possible future investments. These people will be flown into Marquette, then taken from there on one of four "circle" tours into various areas of the U. P. One flight will swing east to Sault Ste. Marie, a second will pass through Escanaba, Menominee and Iron Mountain and the third will sweep through Ironwood and Houghton. An automobile tour is planned of the Marquette area. At the various stops, presentations will be made by local officials to draw attention to the investment opportunities in that area. An Upper Peninsula outlook will be given in general meetings at Marquette.

The hope of the "Invest-Tour" leaders is that at least a few of the men with the money will like the Upper Peninsula enough to spend some money here.

* * *

The third program — "The Town Meeting of the Air" — won't be broadcast on WNMR-TV until early in December and if there is any benefit it probably won't come until much later, but the idea is germinating this fall at both regional and local levels.

Idea here is to let local people define their own problems, rather than have them defined by an outside "expert," and communicate with each other through modern, electronic systems. When each area has reported its findings, a central group will attempt to pin point the critical problems which are common to all or most areas. Then, in subsequent "Town Meetings of the Air," also to be broadcast on the educational television station, resource people will be brought in to attempt to provide solutions and give ideas about how to achieve them.

* * *

Of course, in programs like the three underway, it's always easier to have a program than to get results. Taking a class in English at college is easy. Achieving a passing or superior grade is another matter.

The Upper Peninsula has "enrolled" the three programs. Only time will tell whether they succeed or fail.

Peninsula Potpourri

Another suspected case of arson was reported by Hancock firemen following a battle with flames which damaged a warehouse owned by the Julio Contracting Co. Lumber stored in the building did not burn, but was damaged by water.

* * *

A tidy thief or group of thieves broke into the Bon-Air clothing and confectioners store in Cedarville by smashing in a big plate glass window and stole clothing, miscellaneous items and possibly a small amount of liquor. Vernon Hossack, new owner of the store, said that the person or persons committing the crime smashed the window with a tire iron and then very neatly picked out the broken glass and placed it into his nearby garbage pail.

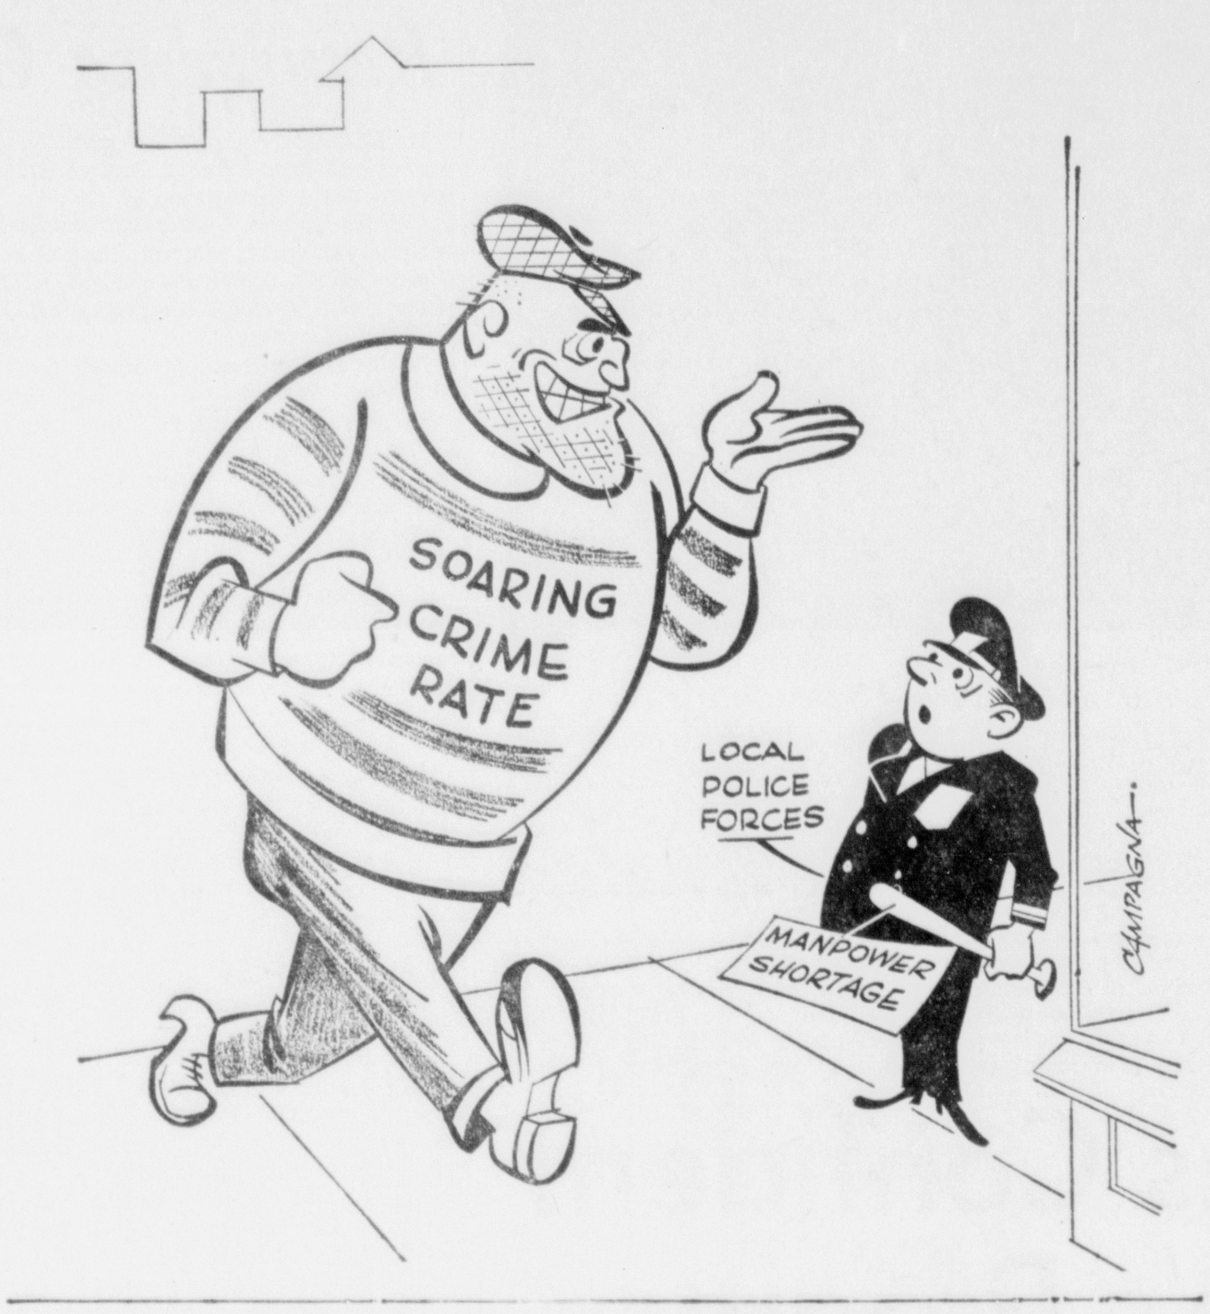
* * *

Sault Ste. Marie police report they received a complaint that a nude male followed a woman for a short distance about 9:50 at night. The man, completely nude, was spotted crouching behind a tree, then followed the woman as she passed him. He disappeared after he was ignored by the woman, who continued to walk home.

* * *

Clayton H. Smith, city administrator of Wrangell, Alaska, since 1964, was appointed Noway city manager, according to announcement by Mayor Anthony Manduca. The 42-year-old Schmitt succeeds Paul Trione, who resigned to accept a similar position in Two Rivers, Wis.

HI, SHORTY!



How Can Big Cities Continue To Operate?

(John Chamberlain is on vacation. Today's column was writen by Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.)

BY SAM YORTY

Man has gone to the moon. He has walked on the lunar surface. And our awesome success in developing the sophisticated technology necessary to perform this spectacular space mission boggles our imaginations.

While acclaiming this magnificent achievement, many of us ask: Is the knowledge gained from space systems applicable to anything else? Can it, for instance, help today's big cities conduct their operations more efficiently?

The answer is an unqualified yes. Los Angeles is already proving that aerospace technology is useful in other fields.

Los Angeles has been called the prototype of the sprawling megalopolises of the future. Approximately 1,000 people a week are added to our population. By 1980, experts predict 27 million people will be living within the 60-mile radius of our City Hall, and 40 million by the year 2000.

* * *

We take great pride in such explosive growth. We also realize that it imposes tremendous responsibilities on those of us elected to positions of leadership. I believe we have demonstrated that the aerospace technology can help us in several problem areas.

Nearly two years ago, for instance, we analyzed Los Angeles' need for an effective command - control system which could be effectively utilized by all city departments throughout our sprawling 463-square-mile city. We created a Communications Advisory Board and hired a large aerospace company to perform the professional work.

Today, for the first time in our city's history and with the help of aerospace technology, we are well on our way to put into operation a program providing command officers in all emergency city departments with "real-time" status and deployment information regarding the resources under their command. This means they will be able to communicate quickly and economically with all units and personnel without costly delays previously encountered. And it will permit unified command of all departments during major civil disasters such as floods, earthquakes or enemy attack.

No command-control system equivalent to the military's exists in any city in the world. Yet, the city's operational requirements are structurally somewhat the same. There are critics, of course, who ask, "What city can afford such expensive hardware?" The only logical answer is: "What major city can afford to be without it?"

* * *

Estimates of the salary cost to maintain a two-man police patrol car on the road, 24 hours a day, for instance, range from $100,000 to $150,000 a year. The cost of hardware involved—the car, a shot gun, a radio, maintenance gear and the communication system—averages about $2,000 a year. Not only is this a grossly under-capitalized situation, but it is deficient where good hardware is essential to the effective use of expensive manpower.

Furthermore, cities are under pressure to double police manpower. In Los Angeles, that would cost $125 million a year—forever.

Contrast this with the development of an effective, technology-dependent, command system. Development and installation of such a system to meet the city's need may cost as much as $100 million. But this is a one-time expenditure and inexpensive when compared to the cost of doubling manpower.

Assisting us in solving some of these problems in Los Angeles is the Los Angeles Technical Services Corporation, a wholly-independent, non-profit, non-competitive, systems development and engineering corporation.

We began this organization in 1966 as an experiment to determine whether or not highly developed skills and techniques used in business and industry—especially the aerospace industry—had any beneficial applicability to the planning and operational problems of local government. Los Angeles' unique relationship with this corporation, first of its kind in the country, is very successful.

* * *

In addition to helping us solve our command - control problems, we asked the Corporation to provide management assistance for the City's "Community Analysis Program" which required the development of a comprehensive information system to determine undersirable social, economic or physicai trends and how to take the necessary corrective action. We are discovering that if blight mechanics can be defined—and we are strenuously working on this problem—we will be able to predict and determine blight trends in all areas of the city.

The not-for-profit corporate vehicle—used so effectively for analogous purposes by the federal government—is an effective mechanism to bridge the gap between local government's need and industry's capability. We are expanding its activity into other problem areas such as water reclamation, traffic management, information systems, organizational planning, city planning, and various other operational problems of local government.

While the debate continues about whether system engineering as developed for the military and space programs has any other applications in our society, Los Angeles is demonstarting that aerospace technology is adaptable to local problems. And we should get on with it.

Letters To The Press

(Editor's Note: The following two letters were received by John Walbridge of the Save Our Air Committee in response to a story written by Associated Press writer James Phillips. The story was circulated nationally.)

KEEP TOWN CLEAN

I write in support of your efforts to keep your town "clean."

I too am from a "clean" town. My work, however, takes me to Augusta, Ga., where there is a sulfate pulp mill. My first experience with the stench was being awekened by it from a sound sleep in my motel room at 3 a. m. There was no escape for me, as the stench was outside, too. So I spent the rest of the night with my head under the covers. I could still smell it, but, at least it didn't irritate the nasal tissues quite so mercilessly. I later learned that if you never try exchanging the air in the room via the air conditioner you are quite safe ... unless you want to go outside your fortress.

As to controling the problem, Augusta has tried everything known to science, all to no avail. I might add, the mill is approximately 20 miles from town.

Unfortunately, the tax money and lure of jobs for a town usually outweighs the citizens desires for clean air, in the plannings of the "town fathers."

I will go to Augusta tomorrow, but I wouldn't live there for all the money in the world, unless that would enable me to demolish the pulp mill.

MAINTAIN U. P. BEAUTY

Our family had the good fortune to spend seven glorious days in the Upper Peninsula last summer. We had a cabin on Lake Michigan at Rapid River and visited Escanaba, Hiawatha National Forest, and all the beautiful God-granted sights in the area up to Sault Ste. Marie.

The entire Upper Peninsula is made up of the most beautiful country God has made our eyes to see. We felt that we were in real pioneer country. There was no dangerous, nerve-wracking, bustling traffic. There were no factories and mills. Everything was perfectly natural and relaxed.

We fell in love with your country and would gladly become full-time residents there if it was possible. However, since that is not to be granted us, we hope and plan to visit there again and again if it is the Lord's will.

Therefore, we are very distressed to read about the proposed construction of a paper mill there. We will pray that all of your endeavors in this matter will be fulfilled.

Please do everything within your power to maintain your beautiful, peaceful Upper Peninsula.

Contract Bridge

By B. JAY BECKER

Your right-hand opponent bids One Diamond, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠A8 ♥A5 ♦9762 ♣A9643
2. ♠942 ♥AQ85 ♦4 ♣AKQ97
3. ♠AKQ983 ♥K762 ♦8 ♣AJ
4. ♠K86 ♥KJ7 ♦AQ6 ♣KQ92
5. ♠KQ872 ♥KQ965 ♦A4 ♣3

1. Pass. In deciding whether to compete against an opening bid, the number of tricks you can expect to take is far more important than your high-card point count.

Judging by that yardstick, this hand does not rate as a two club overcall, despite its 12 high-card points and the values for an opening bid. Your left-hand opponent, holding good clubs, might double, in which case you would probably run into a severe penalty. It is much better to pass and await developments.

2. Double. Generally speaking a takeout double indicates the values for an opening bid, while an overcall shows less than those values. This hand is too good for an overcall of two clubs, especially since such a bid would imply a lack of interest in the major suits. Partner might easily have sufficient heart or spade length to produce a game, and the best way of covering that possibility is by a double.

3. Double. Here, also, the best way of expressing the power of the hand is by a double. While on the surface it might seem that spades should be trump, this is not necessarily true. Thus, partner might have a singleton spade and four or five hearts, in which case hearts would surely be the better trump suit.

Usually the doubler does not have an independent suit of his own, but, when he does, he is by no means barred from using a double if that is the most effective way of representing his values.

4. One notrump. You don't double in this case because you can describe your distribution and high cards far more accurately by a simple overcall of one notrump. This shows 16 to 18 points, notrump distribution and all around strength. Partner responds as though you had opened the bidding with one notrump. A double would suggest distributional values, which you simply don't have.

5. One spade. Two-suit hands are a law unto themselves and require special treatment. Here, though you have adequate values for a double, it is better to bid a spade because, if you double, you might find it impossible to show both suits without going dangerously high. It often pays to risk an underbid (a one spade overcall is weaker than a double) in order to gain an overall advantage by keeping the bidding low.

Ann Landers

Wasn't Necessary That Dad Be Invited

Dear Ann Landers: I have read at least fifty letters in your column in the last ten years from young girls who were pregnant and not married. You have never once suggested the best solution — abortion. Why? I'm sure you aren't Catholic and I know you aren't stupid. Yet you have carefully avoided coming out with the best solution to a problem which has plagued womankind for centuries.

Why has the Number One Mother Confessor of the world been silent on abortion laws which are archaic, and unjust? How about proving you have some guts by stating your position on this issue instead of ducking it? I'll watch the paper for your answer. — Baltimore

Dear Balt: Where have you been? I have said repeatedly that the abortion laws in this country are archaic and unjust and need to be sharply amended. However, I cannot, in good conscience recommend a procedure which is illegal. Moreover, advising a girl to get an abortion could be highly dangerous counsel since I have no way of knowing for certain how pregnant the girl is. (Often she doesn't even know). What's more I would have no way of knowing who would perform the operation or where.

Too many women have already died as a result of botched jobs performed on kitchen tables and in motel rooms. I don't wish to swell the number, thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: You didn't have to admit that you don't know anything about dogs. Your readers were already aware of it.

We've had dogs all our life — pedigreed dogs, alley mutts and Heinz types — 57 varieties. We also have beautiful rugs in our home. The worst stain on our living room Oriental was not made by a dog but a neighbor child who spilled a bottle of strawberry soda pop. Do you think that child should have been given to a farmer? Shame on you! — A. W.

Dear A. W.: Your letter is a perfect example of the point I was trying to make. Dogs are dogs and people are people. It's only when folks forget which is which that they raise the blood pressure of sensible people.

* * *

Dear Ann: So often the children of divorced parents are unhappy because they don't see much of their dads. This is tragic, of course, and it's almost always the mother's fault.

My mother hated my father and she made no secret of it. She never called Dad when we were sick, or had a birthday, or graduated from high school. She never invited him over at Christmas time or Thanksgiving — occasions when children need to be with their fathers.

Although our dad lives less than fifteen minutes away we haven't seen him more than four times in the past three years. When the divorce was granted, Dad got visiting privileges and we often wondered why he never used them. Now that we are older we know it's because mom never invited him. — H & F

Dear H & F: A dad who has visiting privileges doesn't need an invitation. He knows about birthdays and the graduation and Thanksgiving, and Christmas. Sorry, kids, sometimes the truth hurts.

Confidential to Longview Lady: Your second letter requesting that I not print your first letter has been received. I shall, of course, respect your wishes—reluctantly. Your letter was a honey and I'm truly sorry I cannot share it with my readers.

Lake Bluff Transfer Is Denied By Board

By BOB GREGG

A joint public hearing of the Boards of Education of the Delta - Schoolcraft Intermediate School District and the Marquette - Alger Intermediate School District held Thursday night at the Bark River-Harris Elementary School turned down a request of the Escanaba School Board for the proposed transfer of the Lake Bluff Estate property from the Flat Rock school district to the Escanaba school district.

Lake Bluff Estates is a residential and recreational development atop the Gladstone bluff between Escanaba and Gladstone. Several homes are currently being constructed on the property.

The hearing opened with an explanation by Walter McClintock, Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate Board Superintendent, as to why the meeting was called and under which state laws it was legal.

He said that the meeting was called because any board in any joining district can ask for a transfer of property on its own or at the request of the persons in the district to be transferred.

Advocate Nothing

"The Marquette-Alger Intermediate is involved because part of the Escanaba Area District is in Marquette County," McClintock said in explaining the reason for the joint-Board session.

In his opening statement on why the meeting had been called, Luther Barrett, superintendent of Escanaba Area Schools, said the Escanaba School Board was only serving as a vehicle for their area residents. "We are advocating nothing," Barrett told the members of the joint-Boards.

Nino E. Green, attorney for the Flat Rock District, stopped Barrett from continuing and made it clear that the only reason the meeting was called was on the request of the Escanaba Board.

Barrett answered Green saying the Escanaba School Board had no choice but "to initiate this petition for transfer at the request of Escanaba district residents.

Mixed Feelings

"The Escanaba Board is not asking for the transfer as such. I can say this, there are mixed feelings on our Board itself, but they do feel this is an honest request and they have an obligation to serve as a vehicle for the petition," Barrett said.

Barrett added that he felt this petition was not an effort of the bigger school district trying to gobble up the small. "Our Board regrets the atmosphere that this petition has created," he said.

Nino Green was next to speak, and he voiced direct opposition to the Escanaba Board request.

"So far the only party to speak (Barrett) has offered no real reasons for the request of transfer," Green claimed.

Green said that when the Escanaba Board first petitioned to acquire Lake Bluff Estates, the Flat Rock Board responded by filing a petition to acquire in exchange property on which the Escanaba Paper Co. is located. "When the Escanaba Board withdrew its request, the Flat Rock Board also withdrew in an effort to strike a gentlemen's agreement," Green added.

Private Interests?

"After cancellation of the original meeting, the Escanaba Board renewed its petition at the request of the Lake Bluff developers," Green said.

He said that the real interest for whom the Escanaba Board speaks is Lake Bluff Development, Inc., a private organization engaged in selling real estate and country club memberships. "This plea for the Lake Bluff residents to choose their own school system is a hoax. There are no Lake Bluff residents," Green said.

Green said that Escanaba Board member Charles Tooman was quoted in the Daily Press as saying the Escanaba Board should not go on record as trying to steal another school district's tax base. "Well it was kind of late to make that statement because they had already gone on record," Green stated.

"If the Escanaba Board is not interested in acquiring an added tax base, then why are they trying to acquire the site of a proposed golf course and country club?" Green asked.

Parent Speaks

He added that he thought the Escanaba Board was allowing itself to be used as a tool of the Lake Bluff people, when the Lake Bluff people had no legal leg to stand on. "The law denies them the legal status to make the request themselves," Green said.

William Dana, currently the only actual resident of the property in question, made a brief statement saying that he preferred his children in a K-12 district. Flat Rock has only a K-8 district and their students are sent to Gladstone High School on a tuition basis. Escanaba is a K-12 district.

Wesley Fleet, Gladstone district superintendent, spoke out in support of the Flat Rock District Schools. "We work very closely with them, and even though they are a K-8 district they do provide an excellent education for their boys and girls," Fleet said.

Jack Manning, spokesman for the Lake Bluff people, expressed the opinion that future residents wish to support the Escanaba Board and hope that their children can be placed in a K-12 school district. Manning presented a letter to the joint-Board showing support of the future residents for the proposed transfer.

William Brunelle, Flat Rock school superintendent, became irritated at some of the remarks and quotes that were brought out at the meeting degrading his school system.

Brunelle Angered

"Over the years our district has been the victim of land steals," Brunelle said. He recalled a past transfer of property to the Escanaba district which he said was transferred back to the Flat Rock district because it caused the Escanaba district financial problems.

He commented on a remark by Ronald Lankford, Escanaba Board member, that Escanaba Schools were superior to Flat Rock schools. "We have as good a curriculum offering in our K-8 as any other district in the area. We make no apologies. When it comes to superior education — we have it," Brunelle added.

"If the Escanaba Board really means what it has said, then I'm ready to put on boxing gloves to defend my school's achievements," Brunelle said.

Before the joint-Board adjourned, Barrett rebutted Green again saying: "Property owners have the right to express their desires. This is a customary procedure and you the joint-Board have the choice."

The Escanaba Area, although the largest school district, has no representative on the Intermediate Board.

After a short fifteen minute caucus, the joint-Board returned with a denial of the motion for transfer.

Record Chinook Salmon Taken

LANSING (AP) — A new record for a Chinook salmon caught in Michigan waters is reported by the State Department of Natural Resources.

The chinook weighed in at 34 pounds, 13 ounces. It was caught Wednesday off the breakwater at Manistee by John Whitkowski of Manistee. He was trolling a silver flatfish on a 15 pound test monofilament line in 60 feet of water.

The fish measured 35½ inches and had a 28 inch girth. It was landed within 20 minutes.

Earlier the same day, Dr. G. J. Applegarth of Norton Shores caught a 29 pound Chinook.

Fish biologists now are predicting that at least a 40 pound Chinook will be taken from Michigan waters before the season is over.

Quality Of RR Service Not ICC Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled today it has no authority to regulate the quality of railroad passenger service.

Reversing an ICC examiner, the commission held that Congress had not granted it jurisdiction in cases in which railroads intentionally downgrade service.

At the same time, the ICC asked Congress to give it the authority to deal with the problem and suggested the Department of Transportation conduct a study of the nation's passenger train needs.

The action came after a year of infighting among commissioners.

The examiner found the ICC had jurisdiction over the adequacy of intercity passenger trains and service and recommended what the ICC called "a wide-ranging solution."

The ICC said the report showed "many forces have contributed to the creation of the problem," including state and local taxing authorities, railroad labor, diversion of patronage from trains to airplanes and cars and the loss of mail traffic.

"Equally clear," the ICC added, "is the fact that his plan goes far beyond the reach of this commission and certainly beyond any relief which might be accorded in this proceeding."

Although no vote was announced, it was reported the commission decided the case 5 to 4.

Militant Due In U.S. Today

LONDON (AP) — A special Trans World Airline flight left London today carrying American black militant Robert Williams to Detroit.

The plane was due in Detroit about 12:45 p.m. CDT.

The flight left 80 minutes early. Airline officials said they were advised "from America" to move it forward, presumably because somebody was afraid of a demonstration.

Williams was accompanied by a friend, Detroit lawyer Milton Henry. They were the only passengers on the flight, which is costing TWA about $20,000. The American Civil Liberties Union had threatened legal action against the airline because it refused to honor Williams' ticket for a transatlantic flight.

Williams, 44, is returning to face a charge of kidnaping a white couple in Monroe, N.C., during a racial demonstration eight years ago. He fled from the United States then and has lived in Communist China, Cuba and Africa. He claims the kidnaping charge is trumpted up and says he is innocent.

Williams was taken from Pentonville Prison Thursday night under guard and spent the night at London Airport.

The black power leader arrived in London last Friday, but none of the transatlantic airlines would accept him, reportedly because they feared a hijack attempt or a demonstration on arrival in New York.

The British ruled Williams an undersirable alien and put him in prison where he immediately went on a hunger strike. He refused to return to Africa or to take a ship to America. TWA said Thursday it had agreed to take Williams and Henry, along with airline security guards at the request of the U.S. government.

Appeal Denied

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court has turned down the plea of Dr. Ronald E. Clark for leave to appeal his conviction of manslaughter in the death of a former office assistant in Farmington in June of 1968.

The Supreme Court notified Circuit Judge William J. Beer of Oakland County Thursday that it was persuaded Clark had no meritorious basis for appeal or that the Court of Appeals erred in upholding his sentence of 3 to 8 years.

Solon Asking Early School Strike Talks

LANSING (AP) — A Republican legislator has called upon Gov. William Milliken and legislative leaders to consider settlement procedures for public employe disputes, such as school strikes, during the October legislative session.

"Michigan parents and school children should not be confronted by a crisis each fall when many school doors fail to open because of a strike or lockout," contended Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena.

He added that any approach to educational reform also should consider this issue.

Swallow said many of the difficulties experienced today are a direct result of legislative failure to establish workable procedures for resolving collective bargaining impasses.

A bill introduced by Swallow to reform present procedures was defeated on a party line vote in the House earlier this year, then revived and put over until the fall session.

It would permit school administrators to seek circuit court injunctions against strikes. It also would create employe relations panels and boards of inquiry to try and resolve such disputes.

Swallow admitted his bill is controversial, but said: "We can't solve Michigan's problems by hiding from controversy."

War Strategy Nixon Topic

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called in his highest diplomatic and military advisers today for a broadscale look at Vietnam strategy as reports from military sources in Saigon pointed to a new U.S. peace effort.

The meeting, which was called several days ago, took on added significance in the light of reports that the U.S. Command in a move to de-escalate the fighting, had halted B52 bombing raids across South Vietnam.

"It's a gesture of de-escalation, a political move," one Saigon source said. "There is a new leadership in Hanoi."

Presidential news secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who said there would be no announcement immediately following this morning's meeting, gave this list of officials called in by Nixon:

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, U.S. Commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. Ambassador to Saigon Ellsworth Bunker; Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Gen. Earle C. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Pacific commander-in chief Adm. John S. McCain, CIA chief Richard Helms, Philip Habib, senior professional diplomat on the U.S. negotiating team at Paris, and Henry A. Kissinger, presidential assistant for national security affairs.

Sheriff Charged

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Suspended Berrien County Deputy Sheriff David Hanner has been bound over to Circuit Court on a charge of embezzlement.

Hanner was bound over after his preliminary examination resumed Thursday. The examination was suspended July 31 to give Judge John Hammond time to study the transcript of testimony.

The deputy is accused of selling an abandoned car for $300. County officials contend the sale was not authorized and they received no money from it.

Churches Outline Answer To Blacks

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — American Protestant and Orthodox leaders have outlined their answer to the Black Manifesto —they'll put big money into black economic advancement, and let black churchmen decide who uses it and how.

"Black self-determination" and "trust in our black brethren" were cited as keynotes of the approach. Its lack of limitations was sharply criticized by some whites.

It was hammered out Thursday in a sometimes heated session of the general board of the National Council of Churches, which embraces 33 denominations with a total of more than 42 million members.

Their top leaders make up the policy-making board.

They rejected the threatening ideology of the manifesto, but recognized the Black Economic Development Conference, which issued it, as an agency "in the black community directed toward the achievement of economic justice."

The group also was termed a "programmatic expression of the aspiration of black churchmen"—and these churchmen were designated to receive the large-scale church funding, including $500,000 immediately, to use as they judge best.

The solution, skirting direct funding of the BEDC but financing black churchmen who support it, was similar to that adopted in last week's Episcopal Church convention.

Some white delegates here, including leaders of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), pushed unsuccessfully for amendments aimed at prohibiting use of church funds to support groups advocating violence or government overthrow.

The Rev. Dr. George G. Beazley of Indianapolis declared:

"If we give this money with no strings attached, there is a high degree of probability that it will go to the Black Economic Development Conference, whose own document states its purpose is to overthrow the American system."

Negro churchmen, however, strongly opposed any restrictions, saying this would be a slur on their honor and intentions.

Tax Reform On Gov. Milliken's Fall Program

LANSING (AP) — Two constitutional questions — possible tax reform and aid to nonpublic schools — are expected to be raised by the education reform proposals that Gov. William Milliken will present to the Legislature this fall.

Milliken is to discuss strategy and the substance of his package with Republicans from around the state who are convening at Mackinac Island today through Sunday for a Michigan GOP leadership conference.

A special commission, appointed earlier this year by Milliken to study education reform with him, Thursday reached what an aide termed "virtual agreement" on a preliminary report. Milliken has said he expects to make that report public sometime before the Legislature reconvenes on Oct. 6.

His own legislative program will come from that report and "will involve one and maybe two constitutional amendments," Milliken said.

House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, said one possible constitutional issue would be to shift much of the property tax from cities and counties to the state level.

Parochiaid—the designation of public funds for private and parochial schools—likely would be one subject involving constitutional questions.

Rejected once on May 13 by the House, parochiaid has reremained a prime legislative topic throughout the year. Milliken's commission is in "substantional agreement" on the subject, an aide said, but left it as an "unresolved issue."

Other constitutionally knotty problems could involve reform of the state's property tax, changes in the composition and powers of the State Board of Education and the superintendent of public instruction.

Milliken has promised "some property tax relief and some shifting of the burden to other taxes."

MSU Faculty Backing Adams

LANASING (AP)—A group of 30 leading faculty members at Michigan State University is urging the MSU board of trustees to include acting president Dr. Walter Adams on their list of candidates for the school's new president.

In a letter to the board Thursday, Dr. Thomas Greer, a humanities professor, backed by the signatures of 29 colleagues, said Adams might be persuaded to change his mind about not staying in the post if it became apparent that he was the best candidate.

Adams has repeatedly denied interest in retaining the position which he has filled since former president John Hannah left in April to accept a federal appointment.

After a closed-door session Wednesday the eight-member board asked the search and selection committee to come up with additional candidates. The committee has previously submitted four names — all from either New York or Maryland—none of which apparently met with full board approval.

A spokesman for a student-faculty screening committee said a joint meeting with the board was planned for next week.

MANISTIQUE

MANAKIKI LODGE on big Manistique Lake had three groups of week-long visitors from Newberry State Hospital during the past month. Fishing, horseback riding, picnicking, boating and swimming filled the vacation days and 150 hospital residents, some of whom have not left the hospital for years, thoroughly enjoyed this departure from routine. The hospital nursing staff was scheduled for the usual 24 hour coverage and the most recent group, retarded children, had additional daytime supervision by members of the Children's Unit School Staff. Hospital employes brought their boats to provide rides for the children and a full schedule of activities including cookouts and nature walks brought the summer outing to an end.

Industry Told To Watch Radicals

DETROIT (AP) — Black and white radicals may have traded the "long hot summers" of the past for a new type of "long dark and dangerous nights of winter" aimed at industrial facilities, according to an official of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Industry was advised to prepare for possible guerilla - type attacks by installing electronic "intrustion detection" devices, guard towers with searchlights, automatic weapons and elaborate staff identification procedures.

Royan said "there is a tendency for riots to give way to smaller, more selective operations."

"We have in our society today trained agitators who roam the country, obstructing traffic, slandering public officials...and causing riots," said Maj. Gen. Carl Turner (ret.), former Army provost marshal general.

Hit-and-run attacks on suburban communities and sabotage in factories may be the pattern of civil disorder in the future, Turner said.

Industries must be prepared to defend themselves, he added, in the event that police forces are stretched too thin to provide total security during emergencies.

First Week Finds 19,650 Pupils Out Of State Schools

By The Associated Press

While most Michigan school children are finishing their first full week of school today, about 19,650 pupils and 1,100 teachers are still out of classrooms because of disagreements over teacher contracts.

School districts affected by strikes or lockouts now include: East Detroit with 12,900 students; Montague with 1,900, Summerfield with 1,200; Wakefield with 805; Hamtramck with 3,300; and Coleman with 1,500.

Teachers are on strike in Plymouth as well but substitute teachers and administrators have managed to keep classes going in the teachers' absence. This had been the case in Hamtramck, too, but the schools were closed Thursday after unionized nonteaching employes joined that system's 125 striking teachers.

Scientists Claim Moon 'Unihabited, Peaceful'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The moon went through violent and torrid pains of birth and early infancy about the same time as the earth, but then it died and became "a very quiet, peaceful place," scientists at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory believe.

This conclusion, based on examinations of rocks and dust returned to earth by Apollo 11, was revealed in interviews as the scientists prepared to release some of the lunar material Friday to other scientists for further study.

News Conference Set

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will officially announce its findings on the moon rock at a Washington news conference Monday.

Here are the key things scientists at the Manned Space Center say they have learned from Apollo 11.

—There is no evidence there is life on the moon.

—Exhaustive tests exposing the lunar material to earthly life forms—plants, fish, mice, birds and, accidently, man himself—produced no evidence of moon pathogens or germs existing in the soil. Nor has the soil been shown to have a toxic effect on earth creatures.

—Examination of the rocks and dust show the moon to have been molten about the same time as the earth, about three billion years ago.

—The moon heated up after its formation, as did the earth, and was a glob of molten rock. But while the earth continued to evolve and bring forth life, the moon—after 500 million years—in effect died.

Origin Debate Goes On

The Apollo 11 mission failed to still the hot debate among scientists about the origin of the moon.

Before the flight there were three theories: the moon was thrown into orbit from the Pacific Ocean area of the earth; it is a sister planet formed at the same time and in the same manner as the earth; it was formed elsewhere in the solar system and became a captive of the earth's gravitational field.

Examination of the Apollo 11 samples failed to confirm or contradict any of the theories.

No Economic Benefit

Studies of the rocks gave no promise of any immediate economic benefit for mankind, and no indication of life on the moon. Organic matter, which can come from a life form, was measured at "from dead zero to one part per million" in the Apollo 11 samples, a scientist said. There is some question that even this minute amount may have come from the handling of the rocks and not from the moon.

Scientists were surprised at the number of meteorites constantly sprinkling the surface of the moon. The frequency of these hits was larger than expected, but no conclusions have been drawn as yet.

Dr. Robin Brett, a member of the preliminary examination team of scientists at the NASA lab, said the top surfaces of the rocks were also hit by "whopping great does of solar wind," the radiation boiled away from the sun.

Age Of Rocks Established

Dr. Oliver Schaeffer of the State University of New York at Stony Brook used an atomic dating device to establish the age of the rocks.

This system gives the approximate date that the rocks crystalized from the molten state. Schaeffer put the date at from 2.3 to 3.7 billion years ago, which is about the same as the oldest rocks measured on earth.

The rocks from Tranquility Base are like nothing ever examined on earth.

They contain many of the elements with high boiling points, such as titanium, zirconium and chromium, and very little of the elements with low boiling points, such as lead, potassium and sodium.

Rocks Different

"This gives you a rock that's unlike any meteorites, unlike any earth rock of igneous origin," said Brett. "It's just a very oddball type of rock. We don't really understand how it formed at all."

Brett and the other members of the team have pieced together this story of the moon:

—The moon is believed to have been formed 4.5 billion years ago at the same time as the earth and the rest of the solar system.

—During the next 500 million years, just a short period in geological time, the moon heated up and became molten. It then cooled, with the final volcanic action ending between 2.3 billion and 3.7 billion years ago. The moon became a lifeless tombstone, frozen at an early age in its development and preserved.

—During the brief period of activity, "something hitting the moon" formed the vast flat plains which early moon mappers called "mares" or seas. These are the areas which appear darkest to man gazing at the moon from earth.

Moon Bombarded

—Volcanic action filled in the mares with lava and dust.

—Unprotected by an atmosphere that would shield its surface, the moon was bombarded by meteoroids that shaped its features.

—Chunks of bedrock of the moon were blasted from far beneath its surface by the collision of meteors forming craters. Small bits of this rock landed near the Tranquillity Base landing site of Apollo 11 and remained there for 150 million years.

—Meteorites continue to pepper the surface of the moon. The small chunks of material collide with such force that the shock melts surface material, turning part of it into glass. About 50 per cent of the dust in the Sea of Tranquillity is glass.

Top Lawyers Seeking Plane Hijack Cure

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A gathering of the world's top lawyers called on "all governments and international authorities" today to take urgent action to prevent the hijacking of aircraft.

The lawyers, representing 114 countries at the World Peace Through Law Conference, said "legal measures taken so far have proven largely ineffective."

A three-point resolution approved unanimously by the 1,800 lawyers at the conference, urged all states to:

—Decline to give "any aid or comfort" to the hijackers;

—Automatically return all passengers, equipment and personnel;

—Apprehend and punish the hijackers or send them back under guard to the country from which they came.

Charles S. Rhyne, the president of the World Peace Through Law Center which organized the conference, said a committee would be set up immediately to work out a draft convention on air piracy.

He said it was probable that the convention would be presented as a resolution to the United Nations and a U.N. committee formed to write it into international law.

The hijacking resolution was one of 27 adopted on the final day of the conference.

These included a call for an international study of air pollution, its causes and any international controls that could be enacted to prevent it.

Group Opposing GR Desegregation

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The Heritage Hill Association has gone on record opposing portions of the master plan for desegregation of Grand Rapids schools.

Association members approved a resolution this week condemning the plan's proposal to eliminate two schools in the city's older residential neighborhoods.

The predominantly white group is dedicated to preserving and improving the Heritage Hill residential section.

Nancy Weldum Guest Speaker At BPW Club

Experiences while living with two families in Spain during the past summer were told to the members of the Escnaba Business and Professional Women's Club at their meeting Tuesday evening at the Sherman Hotel by Nancy Weldum of Rock.

The family exchange program in foreign countries is a part of the 4-H team caravan program and she traveled to and from the United States with other 4-H teams.

Nancy lived for three weeks with each of the families and adopted the families as her own, the parents becoming her mother and father and the sons and daughters, her sisters and brothers.

Her trip to Spain was financed by contributions from organizations such as the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's Club, and the balance paid for through money earned from 4-H exhibits at the U. P. State Fair.

Nancy's talk was supplemented by a color slide presentation. The families had few conveniences compared with our American way of life but were closely knit and were happy in their family relationships.

President Angeline Hakes announced that the district meeting of Business and Professional Women's Clubs would be held at Sault Ste. Marie the weekend of Oct. 4.

Mrs. Gladys Birkenmeier, chairman of the Civic Participation committee, presided at the program.

The Central United Methodist Church in Escanaba was the setting Saturday, Sept. 6 for the wedding of Melissa Jane Rose of Cornell and James Michael Jones of Escanaba.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rose of Cornell and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Jones, 525 S. 16th St. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Their matching rose and petal headpieces secured maline veils and they carried baskets of apricot and yellow carnations. Their miniature cultured pearl and heart necklaces were a gift of the bride.

Flower Girl

Michelle Jones of Escanaba was the flower girl and wore a maize crepe gown made by the bride. A bow headpiece with maline veiling completed her attire and she carried a basket of yellow and apricot carnations.

Serving as best man for his brother was Richard Jones of Los Gatos, Calif. and groomsmen were Robert Jones Jr., Escanaba, Calvin Rose of Omaha, Nebr., Mark Rose of Cornell and Joey Schubert of Iron River.

After a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will reside in Cornell.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Escanaba Area High School and attended Bay de Noc College for one year. She is presently employed by Neisner Bros. Inc. Mr. Jones attended Escanaba Area High Schol and is employed at Harnischfeger Corp.

hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I had my husband cut down an old table to about twenty inches high.

Then I repainted it and covered the top with pictures from magazines. Mostly pictures of trains, tractors, planes, boats, and toys of all kinds. All pictures that would interest a two-year-old boy.

I covered the table with shellac and, believe you me, it's just adorable.

Our grandson is really enjoying the table—not only for his play area, but is fascinated with the pictures.

I would not recommend using catalog pictures because some of the colors in them tend to run when the shellac is put on. The magazine pictures don't.

Dear Heloise:

My husband doesn't drink coffee in the morning. Since I don't like to make a whole pot just for myself, this is what I do:

I take a small funnel, one which has a small enough bottom to place in my coffee mug. Then I put a facial tissue inside the funnel to act as a filter and put in enough regular drip grind coffee to make one cup.

Delicious.

But, unless you want perfumed coffee, don't use scented tissue.

A Fan

What an ol' smartie! How about funneling me up a cup? Sounds great.

Hanging Shelves On Hollow Walls

Q.—After living in an apartment for the first five years of our married life, we bought a house in the suburbs. We like it fine and don't mind some of the annoyances we had heard about, such as mowing the lawn and putting out the trash cans. But one thing is bugging us—the difficulty of hanging shelves, cabinets and other fixtures to hollow walls, something we didn't have to worry about in the apartment because the superintendent took care of it.

I realize that the best way is to attach screws and nails to the studs, but it seems that every time my wife wants me to hang something, she picks a spot where it isn't convenient to reach the studs.

A.—It appears that you have been trying to drive screws and nails into the wall material itself, which simply won't work. You must use toggle bolts, expansion anchors or other fasteners intended for use in hollow walls. With a toggle bolt, which has folded metal wings, a hole is drilled into the wall to accommodate the bolt. The bolt is pushed through the fixture being installed, then into the wall.

The wings spring open on the inside and, when the bolt is tightened, are pulled flat against the backside of the wall to lock the fixture in place. The one disadvantage of this excellent type of fastener is that you must hold the fixture in place while installing the anchor.

With an expansion type screw anchor, a hole is drilled into the wall to accept a metal tube or sleeve. The bolt in the center is tightened, which causes the tube to expand in back of the wall, locking it in place. The bolt is then withdrawn. You then can go ahead and install the shelf or other fixture, using the anchor to reinforce the bolt. There are other kinds of anchors, including some made with plastic, lead and fiber, which operate on the same or similar principle.

In short, the screw or bolt is held in place by an anchor rather than by the wall itself. You will find that, after using two or three such fasteners, you will get the knack of it and have no further trouble in hanging things on the wall.

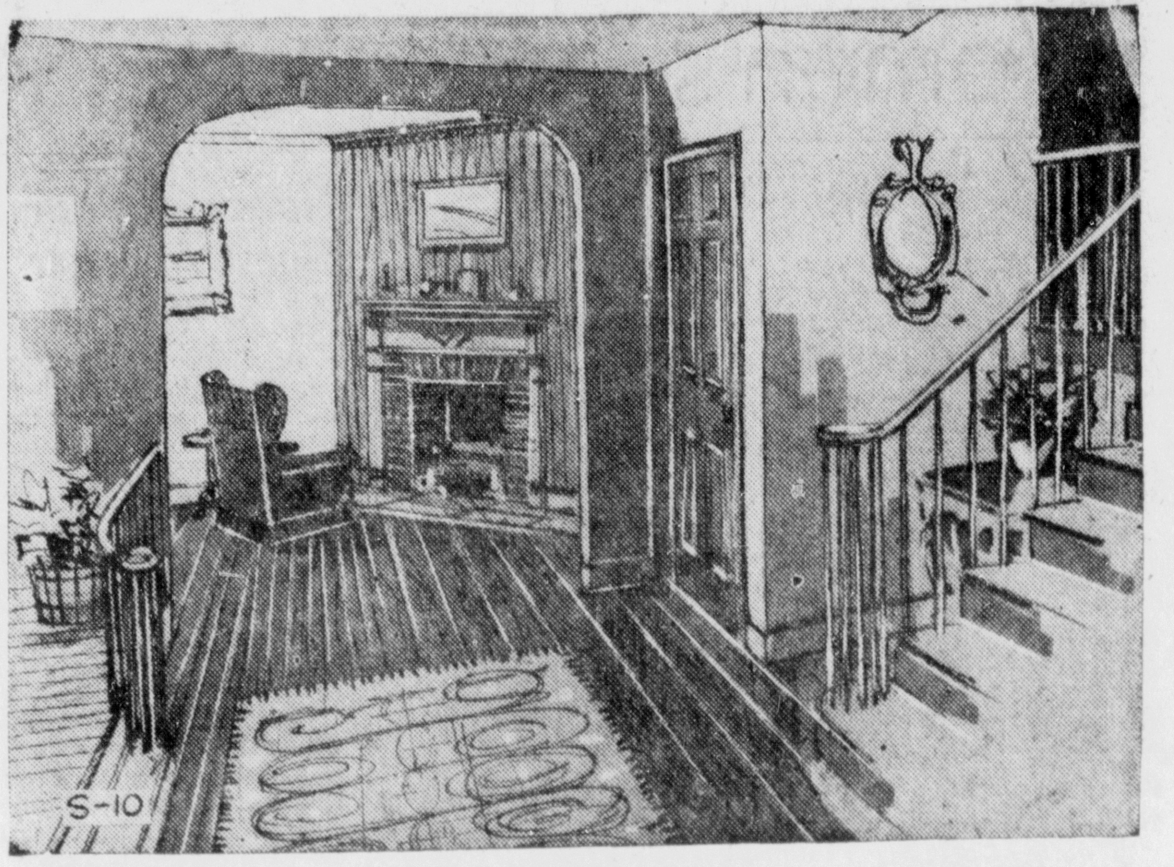
TRADITIONAL EXTERIOR gives warm appearance to three-bedroom split level, with right side of house featuring wood shingles, diamond-paned windows and scalloped gable. Brick veneer is used at front, with softness supplied by covered portico and wrought iron arches.



CORNER FIREPLACE in family room is immediately visible from sizable foyer. Stairway at right leads to bedroom wing. Railing on left gives balcony effect to raised living room.

Living Room On A Balcony

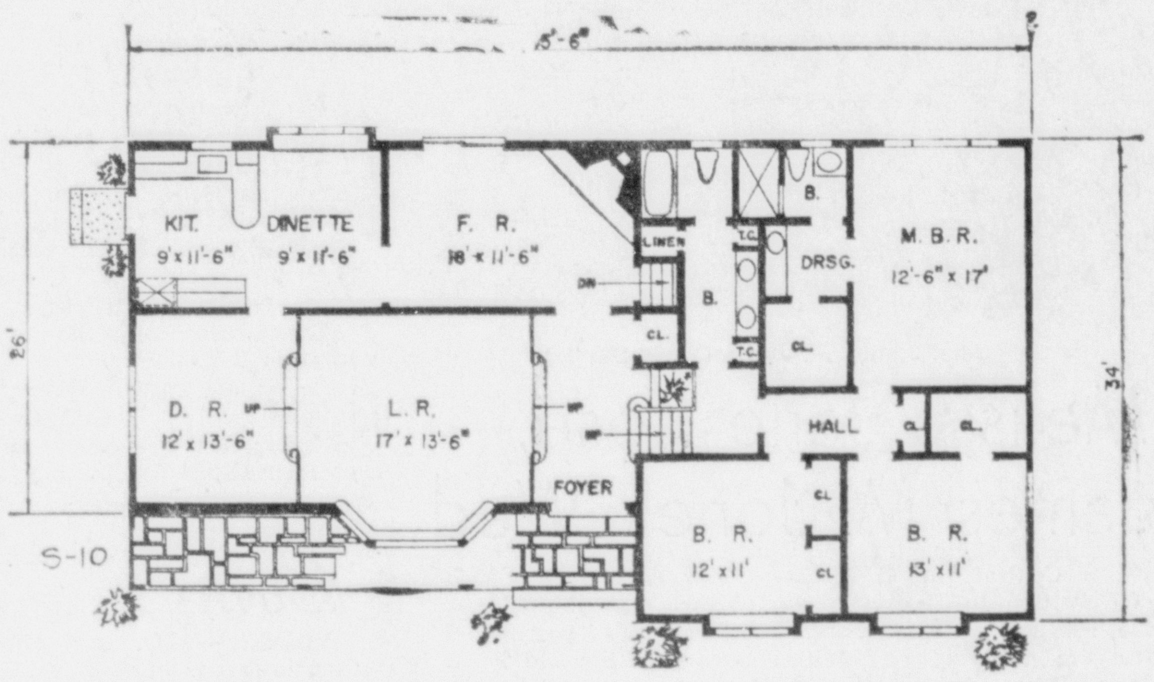
By ANDY LANG

The excellent first impression created by the long, attractive porch at the front of this split level is carried past the entrance door into the spacious foyer.

A brick-faced fireplace, set into a corner of the family room and surrounded by wood paneling, catches the eye immediately on stepping into the foyer. Since the family room is at the rear of the house, the view from the front door stretches 26'.

S-10 STATISTICS

Design S-10 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen with a separate dinette, foyer, three bedrooms and two bathrooms, totaling 1930 square feet. There are 342 additional square feet on the lower level, not including the two-car garage. The over-all dimensions are 65' 6" by 34', including the garage.



FLOOR PLANS: Although on the same floor as the dining room, family room and kitchen-dinette, the living room takes on a special distinction because it is two steps higher, with decorative railings on both sides. Note separate entrance to kitchen area.

To the left of the foyer is an equally interesting and even longer vista. It encompasses the raised living room, with decorative railings on both sides, and the in-line dining room. The two-step rise combines with the railings to produce a balcony effect.

The living room and dining room can be reversed for formal entertaining, since the dinette area of the kitchen is large enough to handle the daily eating requirements of the family, while the adjacent family room is ideally situated for informal activities. Sliding glass doors lead from the family room to the rear garden and/or terrace. Although at the back part of the house, the family room can be reached from the front door without passing through any other room.

Six steps below the family room and a few steps from the two-car garage and full basement are a den, lavatory and laundry. The upper level has three bedrooms, excellent closet space and two bathrooms. The master bedroom, facing the rear, has a large walk-in closet. Its private bath includes a dressing area and a tiled stall shower. The other bathroom is compartmentalized, with a full-wall, mirrored double vanity in one section, a bathtub and water closet. The two smaller bedrooms are at the front of the house and are entered directly from the bedroom hall which, in turn, is directly accessible from the front foyer.

Design S-10 is what is known as a side-to-side split level because the living area and bedroom wing, although at different levels, are located alongside each other rather than one behind the other. The exterior of this one features a covered portico with wrought iron arches, leading to a double entry door, small diamond-paned windows, scalloped gable, wood shingles and brick veneer. It has a pleasant, warm appearance.

S-10's split level design is by architect William Chirgotis.

Finishing Fir

Q.—Can you give me a quick way of finishing fir plywood walls in an attic? I'd like a fairly glossy finish.

A.—It can't be a too-fast finish, because fir plywood must first be given a coat of a clear sealer. Ask your dealer for the kind made especially for fir plywood. Let it dry overnight, then sand thoroughly. Apply a coat of shellac. Should you wish to stain the wood, it should be applied between the coat of sealer and the coat of shellac.

Chalking Paint

Q.—We have some house paint left over from this spring. Can we use it to paint our outdoor wooden furniture?

A.—Not if it's the self-cleaning type. Most house paints are designed to be self-cleaning by wearing away slowly by a process known as chalking. If such paint is used on furniture, the chalk will come off on the clothing of anyone who sits on it.

Britain Reports Higher Earnings

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced today it has earned $115.2 million more than it has spent abroad during the first half of 1969—the first half-year surplus since 1962.

The balance of payments figures released by the treasury thus signaled the likely end of the country's chronic economic ailments.

The nation's basic balance—meaning total overseas earnings against spending—shot up by $240 million during the second quarter of 1969.

This compared with a deficit of $124.8 million during the first three months of the year.

British government leaders from Prime Minister Harold Wilson down have been delighted by the figures which appear to put the nation into the black.

The treasury reported $216 million worth of debts to the central banks have been repaid.

Property Owners Fight Zoning Codes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Town meetings, in many areas, are crowded with homeowners who are fighting to keep industry, business and garbage dumps from encroaching upon residential areas.

Neighbors are becoming suspicious of each other as towns relax zoning regulations. The fear is that if one neighbor sells to a retail establishment, the area will lose its residential status.

This has led to more interest in restrictive covenants on property, which involve limitations on the use of the land.

Property owners can band together and form a corporation to put legal restrictions on their own property. A restrictive covenant runs with the land, and enjoins members from changing anything agreed upon during the life of the agreement. It prevents such situations as a homeowner getting mad enough at the town or at his neighbors to sell out to a fertilizer plant or to an apartment builder. A member has a right to sue any other member who breaks the pact.

Restrictive covenants are recorded in deeds, and are binding for the life of the agreement, even if the house changes owners. (A personal covenant is binding only during the individual's lifetime.) Restrictive covenants may not go against the law—they may not include race restrictions.

In burgeoning communities, owners of high-priced homes, anticipate changes in zoning regulations by setting up such corporations in their land area at the outset. The agreement will specify the kind, size and minimum cost of the house and kind of garage one may build. It may regulate the kind and size of outbuildings that will be permitted, and prohibit portable buildings, such as trailers and temporary businesses.

Some towns begin to tax land at its true value to make available large tracts for their own purposes in the future—for recreation, schools, dumps, etc.

★ ★ ★

In many communities it is the elderly who suffer. An old couple with a small income may not be able any longer to afford their property. But, the land and their home may be more important than the dollars they would realize. Some towns grant tax relief to older people, but many towns are distorting the picture by attempting to take the land away on one hand, and by "building apartments that older people can afford" on the other. No matter what the pitch, apartments wind up with sky-high rents that can attract only the well-heeled, who may be new to the community.

Many towns try to attract industry to avoid becoming bedroom communities. Often, when this occurs, huge areas of quiet residential towns soon become increasingly business oriented, and homeowners flee the area.

In many towns residents argue that the business tax dollars thus earned are hardly sufficient to meet the needs of a growing population — new schools, parks, a larger police department, anti-pollution plants (to clean up rivers polluted by industry) incinerators (garbage dumps are almost full) and more city officials to govern.

Far-sighted civic groups promote zoning regulations that they consider to be good for the town. Fortunately, people have recourse to courts if they feel rights are being violated.

Screwdrivers Often Misused

By ANDY LANG
Ap Newsfeatures Writer

Power tools have not obviated the necessity of frequent use of the ordinary hand screwdriver around the house.

Unfortunately, it is misused as often as it is used, not only when it is being employed for one of the tasks for which it is intended, but when it comes into play for mixing paint, opening cans, unsticking windows and various other self-destructive operations.

While a simple and apparently harmless tool, a screwdriver can be dangerous, both to the user and the wood or other material on which it is being used. If the tip is too narrow, it will mar the slot of the screw and make continuation of the drive-in process difficult and often impossible. If the tip is too wide, it will scar the surface of the material. And if it is rounded or beveled, it will slip out of the slot, damaging the screwhead, the work and probably you, sometimes resulting in a nasty injury.

You should always use the longest screwdriver convenient for the work, as more power can be applied with less effort. Make a pilot hole in the wood and hold the handle firmly in the palm of the right hand (assuming you are right-handed) with the thumb and forefinger grasping the handle near the ferrule. Steady the tip with the left hand until the screw has taken hold. Most important, be sure the blade of the screwdriver is in a direct, straight line with the screw.

To make a pilot hole, which should be slightly smaller than the diameter of the screw, use a brad awl for a small screw and softwood. The hole should be about half the length of the screw threads. For a large screw and hardwood, the hole should be made with a bit or twist drill and should be nearly as deep as the screw. The latter also applies when using a brass screw.

★ ★ ★

The tip of a screwdriver should be straight across if it is to work properly. When it has become rounded or beveled, it can be straightened with a flat file. The handle should be placed in a vise in a vertical position with the tip of the blade upwards. Holding the file in both hands, one at each end, file the tip straight across, at right angles to the shank. If you use an emery wheel to accomplish the same result, be sure the blade is not held against the wheel too long or it will become soft. In either case, dip the tip of the screwdriver in cold water after every few passes with the file or emery wheel.

Besides the common screwdriver, there are several other types, including the Phillips, ratchet, spiral and offset. The Phillips merely has a different end to drive a screw with V-slots in it. The offset is for use where a common screwdriver won't fit. The ratchet and spiral have gadgets on them to permit screws to be driven faster. Each comes with directions for proper use.

Remove Mildew

Q.—We are getting ready to paint the outside of our house, which is mostly clapboard siding. There is some mildew on one side of the house on the lower boards near the foundation. How do we get rid of it and how do we keep it away?

A.—Remove the mildew by washing the area with a solution of sodium hypochlorite, which is made by adding one and one-half cups of a full-strength household cleaner to a gallon of water. Check the label to see whether sodium hypochlorite is its main ingredient. Brush the solution on the area and allow to remain for 5 minutes, then rinse thoroughly with clean water. Another effective method is to add three heaping tablespoons of trisodium phosphate to a gallon of water. There are many cleaning products containing this chemical, which can be found by reading the label. In extreme cases, it might be a good idea to use both of these solutions. All this will remove mildew but not prevent its return. Since mildew grows in damp, sunless locations, do what you can to correct this problem. For instance, the area in question may be kept damp and sunless by thick shrubbery, which may have to be removed. When repainting, use a paint that is specially formulated to resist mold growth. Such a paint contains a mildewicide which kills the spores on contact.

Dubcek Seen Leaving Scene

PRAGUE (AP) — Alexander Dubcek is going to be driven from public life, Czech informants report, but they say he is refusing to make the traditional confession of guilt.

Dubcek's successor as Communist party chief, Gustav Husak, and other leaders now in power recently accepted Soviet charges that Dubcek's failure to curb "counter revolutionaries" and anti-Communists in 1968 justified the Soviet invasion.

The regime plans to remove Dubcek from the 11-member party presidium within a few weeks, informants said. Dubcek's departure from his government job, the presidency of the federal parliament, is expected to follow.

Dubcek, 47, upset the timetable at a presidium meeting last week, the sources said, when he refused to perform the traditional Communist ritual of self-criticism. It was thought that he did not want to break faith with the millions of Czechs and Slovaks who supported his reform regime. In addition self-criticism and admission of errors by Dubcek today could become the basis for trials of his supporters tomorrow.

Dubcek reportedly reminded the presidium that premier Oldrich Cernik and Jan Piller, another presidium member, voted with him for the presidium's resolution condemning the invasion.

The sources said Dubcek also protested by letter to Husak about 10 days of personal attacks against him over Prague Radio, and as a result Husak ordered a halt to attacks naming Dubcek.

The sources said Dubcek's resistance, coupled with the cheers given the former leader in numerous cities last month, caused the presidium to have some second thoughts. The result was a delay while Husak and his allies try to work out a formula to oust Dubcek even without self-criticism.

Shiner, Mingo Ignite Steelers Over Giants

By The Associated Press

Dick Shiner's arm is alive and well in Montreal. And there's nothing wrong with Gene Mingo's foot, either.

Shiner, plagued with a sore arm recently, uncorked two touchdown passes and Mingo kicked a 25-yard field goal as the Pittsburgh Steelers spilled the New York Giants 17-13 in a National Football League exhibition game in Montreal Thursday night.

"We started out slow in the first half, but that first touchdown we got in the third quarter started us off," said winning coach Chuck Noll, referring to Shiner's five-yard strike to Earl Gros.

The Steelers were trailing 6-0, but Shiner's touchdown toss got the Steelers a 7-6 advantage. After another New York touchdown, Shiner clicked with a 38-yard pass to John Hilton for a 14-13 lead, then Mingo booted the clincher in the fourth period.

Noll praised his defense for the victory, the Steelers' second in five preseason games. The Giants now are 0-5 in tunup games.

Coach Allie Sherman of the Giants agreed with Noll that the Steeler defense was the key to the Pittsburgh victory.

"Their defense was real good." Sherman said.

Fran Tarkenton, the Giants' quarterback, said the outcome was just an old story.

"It's the same thing for the last five games," he said dejectedly. "We've been beating ourselves.'

Pete Gogolak booted a pair of first half field goals to give the New Yorkers' a 6-0 lead, but that was wiped out with Shiner's first touchdown pass. John Fuqua smashed in for a four-yard touchdown run to give the Giants a short-lived 13-7 lead.

Then Shiner and Mingo got busy and put the game out of the Giants' reach.

Two games are on tap tonight. St. Louis plays at Chicago and New Orleans is at Detroit in two NFL battles. On Saturday, Green Bay plays Atlanta at Canton, Ohio; Cleveland meets Minnesota at Akron, Ohio, and Los Angeles tackles San Francisco, all NFL tilts.

The exhibition season winds up Sunday with two NFL games—Washington at Philadelphia and Baltimore at Dallas.

Former Michigan State quarterback Earl Morrall holds the NCAA major college single season record for most yards per pssing attempt. The mark is 13.8 yards and was set in 1955.

Northern Opens Season Saturday

MARQUETTE—Northern Michigan's sophomore - laden Wildcats open the 1969 football season here Saturday against the Panthers of Northern Iowa.

Kick-off time is 1:30 p. m. at NUM's Memorial Field.

Head coach Rollie Dotsch has revealed that 10 sophomores, five each on offense and defense, will be in the starting lineup. It will be Dotsch's youngest team in his four seasons at Northern.

The Wildcat attack, however, is led by a pair of veterans in quarterback Rich McCarthy (Kingsford) and halfback Lonnie Holton (Sumner).

McCarthy, despite Northern's rather limited use of the passing game, holds three NMU pass records and is on the verge of setting several more.

Holton, a two-time All-America pick, is the Wildcat's all-time leading ground gainer with 1,782 yards and has led Northern in scoring the past two seasons.

A pair of newcomers, halfback Garry Scutt (Oneonta, N. Y.) and fullback Dave Ripmaster (Grand Rapids), both junior college transfers, will join McCarthy and Holton in the NMU backfield.

"The offensive line is young," says Dotsch. "The only veterans are Guy Kangas (Ironwood) at tight end and Tom Watson (Newberry) at outside tackle. We're going to have to depend on the defense to do the job for us in the early games until our sophomores develop."

Six veterans are sprinkled through the defensive unit. Dick Haynes (Spooner, Wis.) and Doug Peterson (Stambaugh) man the ends, Mike Skrocki (Amherst, Mass.) and Pete Bovan (Oscoda) return as linebackers, and Mike Perry (Newberry) and Dave Gurica (Blissfield) are back in the secondary.

Dotsch says he looks for a "tight game Saturday. I think it'll be low scoring. A field goal or one touchdown might decide it."

Northern Iowa, like NMU, has had to rebuild it's offensive line, but has a defensive unit that returns almost intact. Their offense is led by fullback Dennis Kettner, who ripped the Wildcats for 166 yards in 22 carries last fall.

Quarterback Phil Schooley, UNI's record-setting passer, is now in the pros, but Bill Raun is expected to fill his shoes capably.

Saturday's game has been designated as Air Force Day and a special tribute will be paid to the men and women of nearby Sawyer Air Force Base.

Eskymo Frosh Trip Crusaders

The Escanaba Eskymo freshman football team handed the Holy Name Crusader frosh a 22-12 defeat in a game played last night under the lights at the Escanaba Athletic Field.

Bob Smith scored two touchdowns for the Eskymos while Terry Hillegass got the other touchdown. The Eskymos also scored two extra points, both on runs by Richard Quinn.

Phil Hiney, the Eskymo coach, stated that his team moved the ball well on the ground, while the Crusaders got most of their yardage on passes.

McNally Notches Victory As Orioles Defeat Bosox

By The Associated Press

Hey, guess what? Dave McNally won a ball gjme.

That would't have been much news a couple of months ago when the big left-hander was winging along toward a phenomenal 17-game victory string.

But, McNally's four-hitter in Baltimore's 4-2 victory over Boston Thursday night was only the second triumph in eight decisions for Dave since his two-season 17-game streak was broken Aug. 3. It was his first complete game since Aug. 7.

The victory, coupled with Detroit's 5-2 loss at Cleveland, boosted the Orioles' runaway lead in the American League East to 16½ games and cut to three their magic number for clinching the divisional crown.

Any combination of three Oriole victories or losses by Detroit will mathematically end the race. In fact, the Orioles could clinch a share of the title tonight by beating Cleveland, if Detroit loses at Washington.

In other AL games, Kansas City blanked California 3-0 on Wally Bunker's one-hitter, Washington beat the New York Yankees 7-3, Chicago tripped Minnesota's West Division leaders 4-0 and Oakland stopped Seattle 6-3.

McNally, 18-6, who won his first 15 games this year, helped himself out by doubling home the Orioles' first run as Baltimore picked up its 10th victory in 12 games.

Dave Johnson, Andy Etchebarren and Mark Belanger lashed consecutive doubles for two more in the fourth, and the Orioles added another in the fifth when Paul Blair was caught on the front end of a double steal, but Boog Powell scored all the way from first on errors by third baseman Syd O'Brien and catcher Russ Gibson.

Rico Petrocell's 37th homer, a two-run shot in the fourth, was the only damage off McNally, who had lost his previous four starts. The only other Red Sox to reach second was Gibson, who doubled in the third.

"Mac was spotting his fast ball, and getting his curve and slider over," said catcher Etchebarren. "Maybe that got him over the hump.

"When he was going bad recently, he'd get only one pitch over, and that wouldn't be consistently."

The only hit off Bunker, 10-10, was Jay Johnstone's leadoff single in the seventh. Ed Kirkpatrick, a former Angel, backed Bunker with solo homers in the fourth and sixth, while Jerry Adair had an RBI single in the ninth.

Sal Bando hit his 24th homer of the season and a single, driving in three runs, in helping Oakland break a five-game losing streak.

Veteran Joe Horlen checked Minnesota on three hits and rookie Bob Christian knocked in two runs as the White Sox beat the Twins for the second straight night.

Mike Epstein's three run homer, his 26th, and Brant Alyea's solo blast helped Washington past the Yankees. Joe Pepitone and Bobby Murcer had solo homers for New York.

Exciting Races Slated Sunday

The most exciting stock car races of the year will be staged Sunday night, Sept. 14, at the U. P. State Fairgrounds in Escanaba.

The all-modified race will feature over 30 of the leading Milwaukee area drivers, combining forces with drivers from the Fond du Lac, Chilton and Plymouth, Wis., circuits to battle the top drivers from the Norway, Escanaba and Soo, Canada, tracks.

Time trials will begin at 7 p. m. with the races to follow at 8. Tickets for the event will go on sale at 4 p. m. Sunday at the fairgrounds.

Among the drivers appearing will be Neil Sederberg of Hartford, who has clinched the number one position at Beaver Dam and is currently ranked on top at Hales Corner, Slinger and Cedarburg. Popular Don Schuppel of Slinger will be on hand as will the "Flying Grandpa," Etchie Biertzer.

Wally Jors of Fond du Lac, who set time trial records at Norway this year, will be on hand along with veteran Fuzzy Fassbender of Rubicon. Other drivers who will add to the action include Aaron Solsrud, Ken Markwardt, Billy Goeden, Otto Ramthum, Paul Coen, Wayne Erickson, Gib Wiser, Bob Robel and Al Schill.

Schill recently set a track record at Beaver Dam, touring the quarter-mile track in a time of :16.34, while Sederberg comes to Escanaba fresh from a 50-lap feature win at Beaver Dam and a 100-lap feature victory at Cedarburg. Schuppel recently won the 100-lap feature at Slinger.

More Alumni

In Wednesday's story on the visit to Escanaba by Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch, athletic director at the University of Wisconsin, it was inadvertently omitted that both Don Pfotenhauer and Jerry Cvengros, football coaches at Gladstone and Escanaba High Schools respectively, were also alumni of Wisconsin.

In fact, Pfotenhauer was a classmate of Hirsch's when the former pro football star attended the university.

With Mike Utt

Welcome back, bowlers. Here we go again with reports on your 1969-70 bowling season and contrary to many comments which were received last year, this column will present any and all news from any bowling league, regardless of bowling establishment. Pease remember to send your information to this office by Thursday afternoon and it will appear the following day.

X X X

The gals in the Tuesday 7 p. m. League at the Bowl-A-Rama did not lose their magic touch over the summer, as they started their first night of bowling with a bang. Margaret Seidl led the way with a 534 series and a 199 game while Shirley Rolstad had a 191—530 and Honey Williams threw a 192—513. Splits were also easy for Dot Lofquist 6-7, Lu Rockman 5-10 and "Buck" Hagman 5-7.

/ / /

For a guy who was considering not bowling this year, Harold Krusic had a pretty fine night in the opening of the Bay de Noc League Tuesday night when he fashioned a 673 series on games of 245, 237 and 191.

X X X

Jim Moyle is really going to have to keep bowling this year after the way he started out in the City League Monday evening. Moyle had games of 178, 213 and 201 for a 592 series to pace all bowlers in the league. Other top scorers were Fred Lancour with a 246 game and 569 series, Dr. Richard Stanchina 213-209— 567; Abe Herro 209—573; Red Holmes 221—550; Dr. Ed Kuivinen 204—537; Ron Parlato 211; Orville Owen 205 and Al Sarasin 202.

Two bowlers in the Wednesday night American League went over the 600 mark in the opening night of league play. Red Holmes led the way with 215 and 214 games in a 618 series while Van VanEnkevort had games of 211 and 202 in a 604 series.

X X X

Top scorers in the Major League Wednesday night were Bob Moran with a 234 game, Keith Morin with a 202 and 210 games in a 610 series and Stan Paul with a 607 series on games of 212 and 201.

Vancouver Ready For Pro Hockey

MONTREAL (AP) — Vancouver, bustling with National Hockey League fever for the last four years, today appears to have its foot firmly entrenched in the doorway to hockey's major league.

The NHL announced plans Thursday to expand to 14 teams from the current 12 for the 1970-71 sseason while retaining the two-division concept it undertook after its initial expansion by six teams three years ago.

Price of admission for each of the two newcomers has been set at $6,000,000 in the currency of the country in which the team is located. This represents an increase of 200 per cent over the $2,000,000 franchise for each of the six West Division teams paid at the league's six-team expansion in 1967.

The $6,000,000 will be payable, at the option of the new team, either in full on the date of admission or $1,750,000 on admission and $850,000, plus interest, annually for five years thereafter.

In 1968, Vancouver was promised first shot at any future league expansion and remains foremost among the list of seven candidate cities. Six U.S. cities—Buffalo, Baltimore, Cleveland, Washington, Atlanta and Kansas City—have also indicated they are interested in joining the league.

The latest move by the league followed settlement of one of the most contentious issues facing any future expansion—realignment.

Under the proposed setup the Chicago Black Hawks, a stalwart in the league's established East Division since 1962, will move to the West to play with Los Angeles, Minnesota, Oakland, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. The two new entrants will play in a division including Boston, Detroit, Montreal, New York and Toronto.

Further and full realignment of the various teams by divisions will be completed prior to the 1974-75 seasons. This further realignment may include a third expansion of the league to more than 14 teams and could possibly include European teams.

HAPPY METS — The New York Mets may have provoked any number of smiles during their magnificent history as lovable losers. But anything can, and did,, happen, as the smiles of Mets' manager Gil Hodges and owner, Mrs. Joan Payson, testify after the Mets made it to the top of the National League's Eastern Division Wednesday night by sweeping a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos. McLain Stopped In Bid For 23rd Victory, 5-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Thursday was a bad day for Tiger pitching ace Denny McLain.

Last season's 31-game winner arrived in Cleveland just in time to warm up for a start against the Cleveland Indians. He had spent the day with his wife, Sharyn, who suffered a miscarriage Thursday.

Once he took the mound, things did not go much better and McLain, who had won seven straight prior to Thursday's game, was thwarted in his bid for his 23rd victory of the season as the Indians won 5-2.

The Tiger loss saved Cleveland starter Louis Tiant from the questionable distinction of becoming the first modern Cleveland player to lose 19 games in one season. The victory stretched Tiant's record to 9-18 for the year. He won 21 games last year.

The last Indian to lost 19 games in a year was Earle Moore, who finished the 1902 season with a 17-19 mark. In 1901, Peter Dowling lost 22 games for the Tribe.

McLain's troubles started early when he walked Ken Harrelson in the second inning. Larry Brown followed with a hit-and-run single. Vern Fuller batted in two runs with a triple and then scored himself on a single by Tiant.

Detroit came back with one in the third on a pair of doubles by Mickey Stanley and Tom Tresh.

But in their half of the third, the Indians scored once more when Frank Baker, Duke Sims and Tony Horton started off the inning with consecutive singles and Baker scored on a double play fielder's choice.

Detroit's only other run came in the sixth off a triple by Norm Cash and a sacrifice fly by Willie Horton.

The Indians added an insurance run in the eighth when Jose Cardenal made it to first on a bouncing single and then scored on a sacrifice and two wild pitches by reliever Tom Timmerman.

McLain pitched a total of six innings and gave up six hits and a walk while striking out three. All four runs scored off him were earned.

Earlier in the season, when announcing his wife's pregnancy, McLain had said he would quit baseball if his wife, who has suffered several miscarriages, lost the baby. He did not comment on the statement Thursday.

The couple have three adopted children.

Four Wolverine Players Injured

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Four players, including three starters will be out of action Saturday when the University of Michigan football team stages its final scrimmage of the practice season.

Only one of the injured players, guard Richard McCoy, is expected to be in shape for the season-opening contest Sept. 20 against Vanderbilt at Michigan Stadium.

The other three disabled Wolverines are Phil Seymour, defensive end; Peter Serantos, offensive center, and Bill Taylor, second-string quarterback.

The Wolverines avoided contact in their practice Thursday.

Coaches experimented with the school's new artificial turf, wetting down half the field and keeping the remainder dry to determine whether longer cleats would be needed in rainy weather. The coaches, backed by player complaints that short-cleated shoes slipped on the wet turf, decided the Wolverines will adopt longer cleats when the field is wet.

Magnificent Mets Gain Ground On Losing Cubs

By The Associated Press

The only Chinese-Hawaiian in the majors and a pitcher just up from the minors played key roles Thursday night in amazing National League division races.

The first would be Mike Lum, No. 5 in the Braves' outfield but No. 1 in all Atlanta today after a pinch single that beat San Francisco 5-3.

The other is Jeff James a right-hander making his first NL appearance of 1969, who tamed Chicago 4-3 with last-out help from Grant Jackson as Philadelphia sent the Cubs plummeting to their eighth consecutive defeat.

Mets Win

Elsewhere, the New York Mets blanked Montreal 4-0, Cincinnati held off San Diego 6-4, Los Angeles nipped Houston 1-0 and Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 3-2.

The standings in the East find the Mets two games ahead of the Cubs, with Pittsburgh eight out and St. Louis 8½ back. In the West, it's Cincinnati back on top by one percentage point over Atlanta. San Francisco is one-half game out, Los Angeles 1½ back and Houston 2½ out.

Lum came to bat in the eighth inning of a 3-3 game with two out and the bases loaded after the Giants issued an intentional walk to Sonny jackson. His single to center off Frank Linzy scored Oscar Brown, running for Rico Carty, and Orlando Cepeda. Carty and Cepeda opened the inning with singles.

McCovey Hits Hwo

Willie McCovey slammed two homers for the Giants, his 43rd and 44th of the season, while Hank Aaron hammered No. 41 for the Braves.

Lum's pinch hit gave the victory to Ron Reed, 16-9. Hoyt Wilhelm, the 46-year-old knuckleballer recently acquired from California, made his first NL appearance since 1957 and worked a scoreless ninth inning.

Bobby Bonds of the Giints struck out for the 164th time this season, a league record.

The Cubs and Phillies were tied 1-1 in the eighth when Ernie Banks homered for Chicag, No. 22. But the Phils came right back to tie the score on consecutive doubles by Tony Taylor and Johnny Briggs and Richie Allen followed with his 30th homer.

Pinch Homer

That gave James a 4-2 lead. Willie Smith hit a pinch homer for the Cubs with one out in the ninth and with two away Glenn Beckert singled. Jackson came on and retired Billy Williams on a pop fly.

James, just up from the Pacific Coast League, started in place of the injured Jerry Johnson. The right-hander spent 1968 with the Phillies and compiled a 4-4 record—2-0 against the Cubs—with one complete game—an 8-0 blanking of the Cubs.

The Phillies scored their first run on an odd play. With Taylor on second, Briggs on first and two out, Dick Selma wound up on a 3-2 pitch to Allen and the runners took off. Selma changed course and fired to third, shouting, "Ron, Ron."

But Ron Santo was concentrating on the plate and the ball sailed into left field as Taylor raced home.

Rose Sparkles

Pete Rose drove in three runs with a double and bunt single as the Reds ran up a 6-0 lead on the lowly Padres. Wayne Granger came in for his 76th appearance to save the victory for Gary Nolan after Roberto Pena hit a two-run homer in the fifth and the Padres got two more in the eighth.

The Mets increased their East Division lead to two games—three in the loss column—as Gary Gentry stopped the Expos on six hits. It was New York's seventh consecutive triumph and 23rd in the last 29 games.

Claude Osteen protected the Dodgers' 1-0 lead after Maury Wills and Manny Mota opened the game with doubles off Don Wilson. It was Osteen's 19th victory and the fifth time he has beaten Houston this season.

Bob Veale scattered eight hits and struck out 12 for his eighth consecutive triumph in Pittsburgh's victory over St. Louis. Triples by Willie Stargell and Roberto Clemente figured in the first two Pirate runs and they scored the winner in the seventh on Gene Alley's single.

Lena Horne Finally Given 'Big Chance'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Lena Horne, often a guest star on other people's programs, finally had her own network special Wednesday night. Despite the presence of the usual assortment of guest stars, singing and dancing groups, the NBC hour was essentially and satisfyingly a one-woman show.

Miss Horne demonstrated her distinctive style with a wide range of musical material, from the Beatle's "Rocky Raccoon" to Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Surrey with the Fringe on Top."

O. C. Smith was effective in his one solo, but David Janssen seemed ill at ease both when talking a musical number and exchanging quips with the star.

The sets were handsome: Miss Horne's clothes were stunning. If one were to quibble, it would be about the constant focus of the cameras on the star in semicloseup. There was even a dance number in which we saw Miss Horne only from the waist up and the rest of the ensemble only when they happened to move into Miss Horne's frame.

CBS launched a new soap opera this week, "Where the Heart Is." It probably will grow and flourish along with "Love of Life" and "Search for Tomorrow" which have been around longer than any television programs except "The Ed Sullivan Show."

Harshest critics of the serial drama are likely to be viewers who rarely see them. The prime-time viewer, housebound by head-cold or some other short term handicap, is apt to feel like a tourist in a foreign land without a phrase book if he tunes in, without preliminary briefing, to one of the daytime dramas. He is likely to listen briefly, wonder why everyone seems to be so unhappy and flip to a game show or old movie.

The veteran soap-opera viewer possibly can sympathize with the confusion of the novice when a new serial starts and the writers are busy introducing characters and sowing seeds of story lines and subplots.

"Where the Heart Is" promises to be full of plots. The series opened with the death of old Judge Hathaway, rich, respected and father of three. Julian, the oldest offspring, is a college professor married to a very young wife. His sister Kate was jilted by her fiance who ran away with her younger sister, Alison. It has been suggested that the young wife has more than a maternal interest in her step-son Michael, who is about her age. Kate gets emotional about her lost love. And a stranger is hanging around a local bar asking too many questions.

To Aid President

HOLLAND (AP) — Dr. William A. Demeester has been appointed assistant to Hope College's president. Demeester will be in charge of planning and development for the college.

He has been president of Lea College in Albert Lea, Minn., for the past four years.

WORLD WAR II STARTED HERE — This is the Reichstag meeting in Berlin on Sept. 1, 1939, with Nazi Dictator Adolf Hitler (middle, arm extended in Nazi salute) announcing the nation at war — invasion of Poland. Beside Hitler is Rudolf Hess, who during the war secretly flew to England. On upper rostrum is Hermann Goering, air force commander.

Prestige Checkup Can Be Important Factor

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you given yourself a prestige checkup lately?

If not, why not?

Millions of Americans now get some kind of annual medical checkup. This is good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough.

A medical checkup only determines the state of your physical health. It lets you know how much wear and tear your body is showing and whether you still have muscle tone or have gone flabby.

What you need to know in addition is the state of your social health. Competition is not only the life of trade, it is also the life of our business-oriented society.

Are you still clawing your way up the ladder of success, or unknowingly, have you begun to zoom on a toboggan path toward Nonentity Swamp? Only a regular prestige checkup can give you the answer.

In time, of course, these checkups will be given by computers. But there is no reason why, if you are one of those do-it-yourself guys, you can't figure out yourself the state of your prestige.

You can congratulate yourself that you're doing okay if—

The wife of the boss insists that you dance with her at least twice at the annual office spring get-together.

Instead of your getting an occasional dunning letter from the alumni office, the president of your college suggests having lunch with you when he drops into town.

You quit hanging around pool halls and spend more time at country clubs.

When you drop into the bank to explain how your wife overdrew your joint account, the banker no longer looks at you in chill disbelief. He calls you by your first name—or, better yet, by your initials—and says not to worry about it until the bank does.

On a business trip you don't feel it necessary to wash your own socks in the hotel wash bowl; at home your wife has quit ironing your shirts and now sends them to the laundry.

At least one member of the family has had a small nervous breakdown and emerged from it successfully.

You have been asked to head a charitable drive in your community, even if it was only to raise funds to wipe out chilblains among the Eskimos.

The shoeshine man who goes from floor to floor in your building is now willing to trade stock market tips with you because he figures you may have almost as much inside knowledge as he does.

The boss doesn't push the buzzer on his desk so often anymore to summon you to his office. When he has something on his mind, he likes to drop into your office and talk it over more informally. If he asks how your kids are, he remembers their names.

You no longer can waste time at the barbershop leafing through naughty magazines while awaiting your turn in the chair. Your secretary now arranges your haircuts by appointment.

If you want to kill a dull workday afternoon by taking in a movie, you are free to do so. The office underlings will only assume that you're at your club, conscientiously losing a golf game to a major contact.

Your neighbors, who would dislike you if you bought a new car more expensive than they could afford, now dislike you because you bought one cheaper than they can afford. They suspect such attempts at tact indicate you're getting rather smug and condescending.

Well, the truth is, you are, aren't you? But you've also got something else, too—prestige, one price of which is always envy.
